Close to Foothill Freeway right of way

Zone change granted after year

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

After more than a year of delays, the Upland City Council Tuesday night granted part of the zone change former Mayor Abner Haldeman has been seeking for his property along the Foothill Freeway right of way.

The council also urged that the state give high priority to purchasing the southern half of the property directly in the freeway's projected route with funds to guard against development in the path.

Haldeman owns 10 acres of a 15-acre parcel at the southwest corner of San Antonio Avenue and 20th Street. He, along with the two other property owners, has been seeking the zone change from agricultural to residential use since 1977.

Uncertainty over the fate of the Foothill Freeway extension, which would cross north Upland, prompted the council to continue the zone change request many times over approximately 18 months.

Haldeman, an ardent supporter of the freeway, agreed to the delays when the council noted the zone change might give the state the impression Upland no longer wanted the freeway.

Following the recommendation of the planning commission, the council Tuesday night approved a zone change for single-family homes on minimum lots of 10,000 square feet for the northern 7.8 acres of land.

The southern 7.2 acres — the land directly in the freeway's path — was given open-space zoning severely restricting use of the property.

On Jan. 26, the state Transportation Commission authorized the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) to spend up to $1 million over the next two years to buy right of way land where it is threatened by development.

However, City Manager Lee Travers and City Engineer Fred Blanchard noted the guidelines for these purchases are unclear.

"Generally, they want the cities through their land-use powers to protect the right of way for as long as possible," Blanchard said.

He added that when cities could no longer protect right of way land, the state would consider making the purchase under a process taking three to six months.

Blanchard noted the commission's study on whether to abandon the freeway route is expected to take six to nine months.

"Generally, the question on this property should be: Can we go any further in protecting the right-of-way or is it legitimate for a decision to be made?" he said.

Blanchard added that city staff members believed continuing the zone change request while the commission studies the freeway route seemed unreasonable.

He and Upland Mayor George Gibson noted that a Caltrans right of way agent, Harry Kagan, will be in the area the week of March 5 to meet with representatives of the four local cities — Upland, Rancho Cucamonga, La Verne and Claremont — in the freeway's path.

"This leaves it sort of up in the air, and Mrs. Evanhoe (Michael Evanhoe, executive secretary of the commission) didn't have the answers" on state purchase of right of way, Gibson said.

Mayor Pro Tem John McCarthy noted San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) committed itself to spend funds if necessary to protect the right-of-way from the San Bardnino County line to the Devore Freeway.

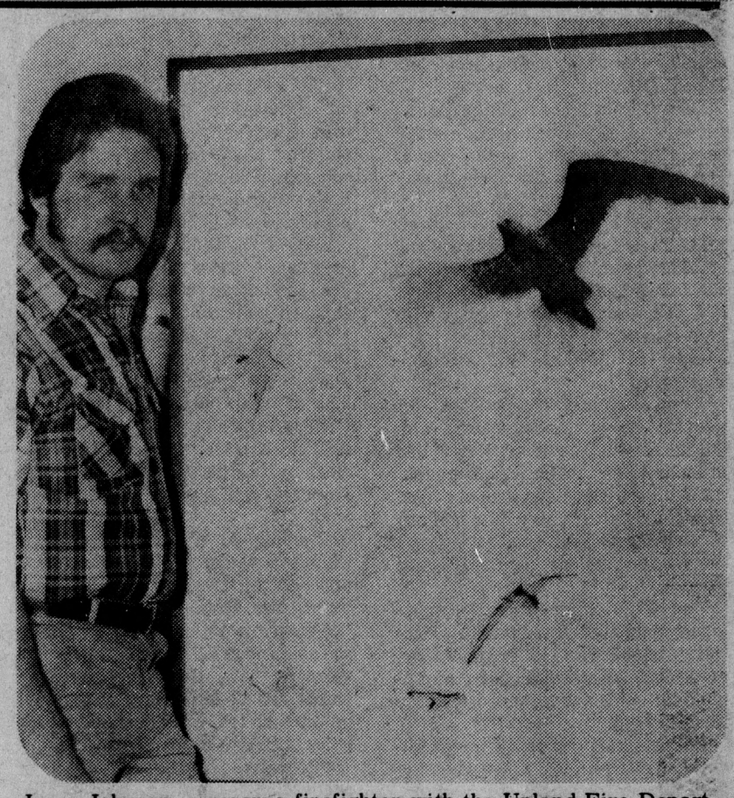

McCarthy, Upland's presentative on SABGAG, said the organization hopes to have $7 million marked for the freeway's right of way protection over five years in the Southern California transportation improvement plan.

Noting the delays, the council exempted the property from growth-management fees and procedures enacted since the zone change was first sought.

Haldeman and Wayne Blanton, representing the property owners and developer Park View Homes, had requested the zone change for the entire 15 acres.

Blanton said including all the land would put the "burden on the state's back."

After the council vote, Haldeman said, "It's progress. Let's just say I'm thankful for the progress."

Jerry Johnson, a reserve firefighter with the Upland Fire Department, displays his seven-step composition "Birds." Johnson's photographs are currently displayed at the mayor's office at city hall, 460 N. Euclid Ave. Gibson said the art exhibits will be a regular feature of his office. Visitors may view the work during normal city hall hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. Sculpture by John Svenson will be the next display. (Staff photo by Don Green)

Statue's 50th anniversary noted

Madonna medallions being sold

Medallions commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Madonna of the Trail statue are being sold at two Upland businesses.

Silver, bronze and aluminum medallions—about the size of silver dollars — are available at Skinner's House of Accent, 260 N. Second Ave, and the Upland branch of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Euclid Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

One side of the medallions shows the statue's pioneer woman holding an infant while a second child clutches at her dress.

A map of the United States with 12 stars marking the locations of the madonna statues along historic Highway 40 is depicted on the other side.

Prices of the medallions are: silver, $13.25; bronze, $3.71, and aluminum (silver replica), $1.06, including sales tax.

The San Antonio Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) is sponsoring the golden anniversary celebration, along with the city of Upland and the Upland Chamber of Commerce.

Alta Visnak — co-chairwoman of the DAR's anniversary committee — noted the aluminum medallions are being made available to students through Upland schools at 50 cents each.

In addition to sales at the two businesses, medallions may be purchased through the mail. Checks to the San Antonio Chapter, DAR, should be sent to P.O. Box 353, Upland 91786.

Residents placing orders should include their mailing addresses. The medallions will be placed in small cases and sent to buyers by insured mail.

Upland school sets paper drive

Cabrillo School in Upland will hold its second paper drive of the year March 2.

Papers should be neatly tied with heavy string, or placed in paper sacks. IBM computer sheets will also be accepted, but should be bundled separately from the newspapers. No magazines or telephone books will be accepted.

Bundles will be accepted all day in the school parking lot, at the corner of Benson Avenue and 11th Street. Prizes will be awarded to the classrooms collecting the most papers.

City 'gallery' displays local artists' works

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Upland Mayor George Gibson is one public official who believes art and politics do mix.

Gibson is making exhibits of art work by local residents a regular feature at his office in Upland City Hall, 460 N. Euclid Ave.

Currently on display are seven photographs by Jerry Johnson, a reserve firefighter with the Upland Fire Department.

Along with smaller, bright color color shots featuring outdoor settings, Johnson's display includes a seven-step composite he calls "Birds."

Johnson used three negatives to make a composite print, made separations and an enlargement and masked out the sky to show sea gulls gliding on a white backdrop.

Johnson — who works for General Dynamics in Pomona in addition to be a reserve firefighter — said he typically "gets an idea and just starts."

With an involved composition like "Birds," he may pick up and set down his work several times before finishing, he said.

Gibson, an avid photographer himself, noticed Johnson's work at Upland's new fire station.

"I take the same stuff, but it doesn't turn out the same," the mayor commented.

Johnson noted he has one advantage over the mayor by printing his own work.

Johnson, 24, has been taking photographs since he was 12, but said the display in Gibson's office is his first exhibit outside of contest entries.

Preceding his display was an exhibit of "non-figurative art" by Carolyn Prince Batchelor of Upland. Mrs. Batchelor's work — featuring vivid colors and torn strips of canvas to give a three-dimensional effect — has been widely displayed in the Southland.

Following Johnson's exhibit will be works by local sculptor John Svenson.

The mayor's office-gallery is open 8 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays. Gibson said the displays remain at city hall six to eight weeks.

Gibson credited his wife, Louise, for laying the groundwork for the exhibits, noting her interest in art.

He added that the displays give his office a better appearance than one "plain, humdrum" picture gives.

"I'm trying to bring a little culture to the city," he joked.

Employees of Western Refuse Hauling load trash onto one of two collection trucks recently added for refuse service in Upland. Al Simonian, general manager of the refuse firm, said the trucks have been in service about two weeks and added that the company will soon acquire two other new trucks. He said the trucks feature a newly designed body and represent part of Western Refuse's commitment to improve the quality of trash pickup in the city. The company is also starting a nine-point improvement program for service, Simonian added. (Staff photo by H. Lorren Au Jr.)

Specialists will rely on residents' help in battling rats in Upland

County environmental specialists will be relying heavily on residents' help this spring when a campaign is launched against Upland's rat population.

Gene Zdunowski — division manager for protection services of the San Bernardino County Department of Environmental Health Services — said Upland residents registered more than 200 complaints about rats in 1978.

That number represents an eight-fold increase over complaints made in 1977, he noted.

Upland's rats seem to prefer the lush vegetation available in middle- and upper-income areas. Ironically, it is the city's high mean family income that prevents Upland from qualifying for a federal grant enabling a more massive attack upon the rats, such as the continuing program in Ontario.

But Zdunowski and other officials are counting on residents' help to make rat control work in Upland.

City Manager Lee Travers said the city plans to hold its annual "clean-up week," in cooperation with the Upland Chamber of Commerce and Upland's refuse firm, late this spring.

He noted residents will be able to have oversized loads of trash picked up during this week, usually held in early May.

Zdunowski said the county plans to time its educational campaign shortly before the clean-up week, placing newspaper ads showing residents conditions to correct and distributing fliers through businesses and governmental offices.

Meanwhile, any West End resident wishing inspection of property and suggestions on how to keep rats away may call the insect and rodent vector control section of the county department in Ontario, 988-1208 and 988-1105.

Zdunowski noted the county will soon have a rat control specialist available five days a week, instead of three, to concentrate on rat control in and around community development target areas.

These low- to moderate-income areas receive federal community development grants through the county. Upland's target area covers roughly half of the city's southeast quadrant.

Zdunowski noted the county has one vector control specialist to serve the entire West End from Sierra Avenue in Fontana west to the county line outside these target areas.

He noted the specialist serves a large area, but added that all complaints are answered.

Zdunowski explained that the different funding arrangements limit inspection outside the community development target areas.

In southeast Upland, the county specialist will not only inspect the home of a resident making a complaint or report of spotting a rat on the property, but the homes of as many as five adjoining neighbors, Zdunowski said.

Outside the target area, he added, a specialist will inspect only the home where a rat is reported.

"The only way we can help Upland is through a mass education program. We hope residents will find causal conditions on their own and correct them on their own," Zdunowski said.

He told the Upland town hall meeting Jan. 22 that rats in the area grow up to seven or eight inches in body length with a tail another nine inches. Zdunowski said the rats are the same type that brought the plague in the Dark Ages.

The rats use telephone wires as a "freeway system" and have a feeding range of a few hundred yards, he noted. Zdunowski pointed out the rats' range limits the effectiveness of single-home inspections.

Zdunowski said the West End's rats are crossbreeds of three subspecies of "Rattus rattus." The crossbreeding has served as a genetic improvement, giving the rodents — commonly called roof rats — a "marvelous variety in feeding ability and habitats," he said.

He noted the rats feed on fruit, nuts, stored food, dog food, budding ivy, snails and many other foods. They have adapted well to the suburban environment as local citrus groves have been cleared.

Rubbish piles, weeds, heavy growth of ivy, small holes to roofs and basements, wood piles on the ground and close to a wall and palm trees provide harborage for rats.

Quarter-inch mesh wire to close openings, removal of debris, thinning of ivy and bans about palm trees are some of suggested countermeasures.

Zdunowski noted Ontario is currently under a six-month extension of a demonstration project in rat control. The grant through the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare was $225,000 for the first year and allows a house-by-house inspection.

Young Career Woman named

Mrs. Elaine Francisco Davis, financial aid director for Chaffey College, is the 1979 Young Career Woman for the Upland Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Davis began her employment with Chaffey in 1971 as a temporary clerk-typist. She gradually moved up through promotions and was appointed financial aid director in October, 1975. At that time, she took over a program that had been experiencing administrative deficiencies and moved it from a $200,000 annual budget to one in excess of $2 million within three years of administering the program.

As director of financial aid, she is administratively responsible for the securing and delivery of federal, state and local financial aid for students, including loans, grants and employment. Mrs. Davis also supervises the financial aid staff, serves on the college's affirmative action, recruitment and classified employees reclassification committees and is the faculty advisor to the United Students Union.

Mrs. Davis received a bachelor degree in administration from Cal State San Bernardino in 1977, and is currently working toward a master's in the same subject there.

She is a member of the National, California and Western Associations of Student Financial Aid Administrators. She is also a regional commissioner of the NASFAA's Committee on Minority Affairs and is an active member of the Church of God.

In 1976, she received the outstanding service to students award from Chaffey College.

Mrs. Davis' career goal is "to hold a vice presidency in a public or private firm. I will always hold positions that are satisfying to me personally and provide some type of stimuli or challenge."

Belia Cuevas and Margaret Thrasher were co-chairmen on the selection of the Young Career Woman.

Bedtime stories

Give children that special time

By KEN SWART
Staff Writer

Parents can use bedtime stories not only to teach children basic skills, but also to provide them with the special time they need, says a teacher from the Ontario-Montclair School District.

"Story-telling shouldn't be just 15 minutes of busy work every night," said Peggy Howard, a teacher at Bon View School. "It can be a way of building skills.

"Story-telling or creative dramatics is important because when young children hear words they learn the flow of language," said Ms. Howard, speaking to parents during a recent meeting of the parent advisory council of the Title VII Bilingual Program.

"You also can expand your child's general knowledge by telling him stories about other countries and other cultures," Ms. Howard said.

"With the mood and tone of books, children can learn about the feelings of characters and how to express their own feelings," Ms. Howard said.

The skills children can learn include increased imagination, creativity, vocabulary, listening ability, emotional awareness and communication techniques, according to Ms. Howard.

Parents also can teach their children about the classics, mythology and history through story-telling, said Rosamaria Gonzalez, Ms. Howard's aide.

Story-telling is a perfect way to teach these skills because "You can do it every night before your child goes to bed," Ms. Howard said.

She said she uses story-telling as a way of encouraging imagination, creativity and prediction in her own classes by "stopping in the middle and asking the children to finish the story. this way you're building an important skill that many children have never been exposed to before.

"By making predictions or drawing conclusions from stories they hear or newspaper articles they see, children learn the concept of persuasion and how to read between the lines to understand what the real meanings are," Ms. Howard said.

Such a technique also helps children understand what stereotypes are, and how to recognize them, Ms. Howard indicated.

"Explore different interpretations with children so they understand there's more than one way to look at something," she suggested.

"Try changing the viewpoint of traditional stories, like telling the story of 'Little Red Riding Hood' from the wolf's point of view," she said.

Reading to children also helps them learn content, listen for detail and become familiar with different words, Ms. Howard said.

Referring to her own students, she said the practice means it is possible to "ask them in their own words what's happening and they'll be able to tell you—even if it isn't exactly," Ms. Howard said.

"Sequence or the technique of succession -- asking step-by-step questions -- helps children learn the content of stories and encourages self-expression as well," Ms. Howard said.

Probably the most important aspect of story-telling is that "it becomes a special time to hold your child close, answer questions and share feelings," Ms. Howard said.

Since there is competition for a child's attention from radio and television, "it's imprtant for you to turn off the TV or stop wiping the dishes and give your child that special time he needs," Ms. Howard said.

"It may take a while to get used to picking the right material and telling the stories, but you don't even have to read at the child's reading level," Ms. Howard said. "If you enjoy the story, then you'll be able to get your child to enjoy it, too.

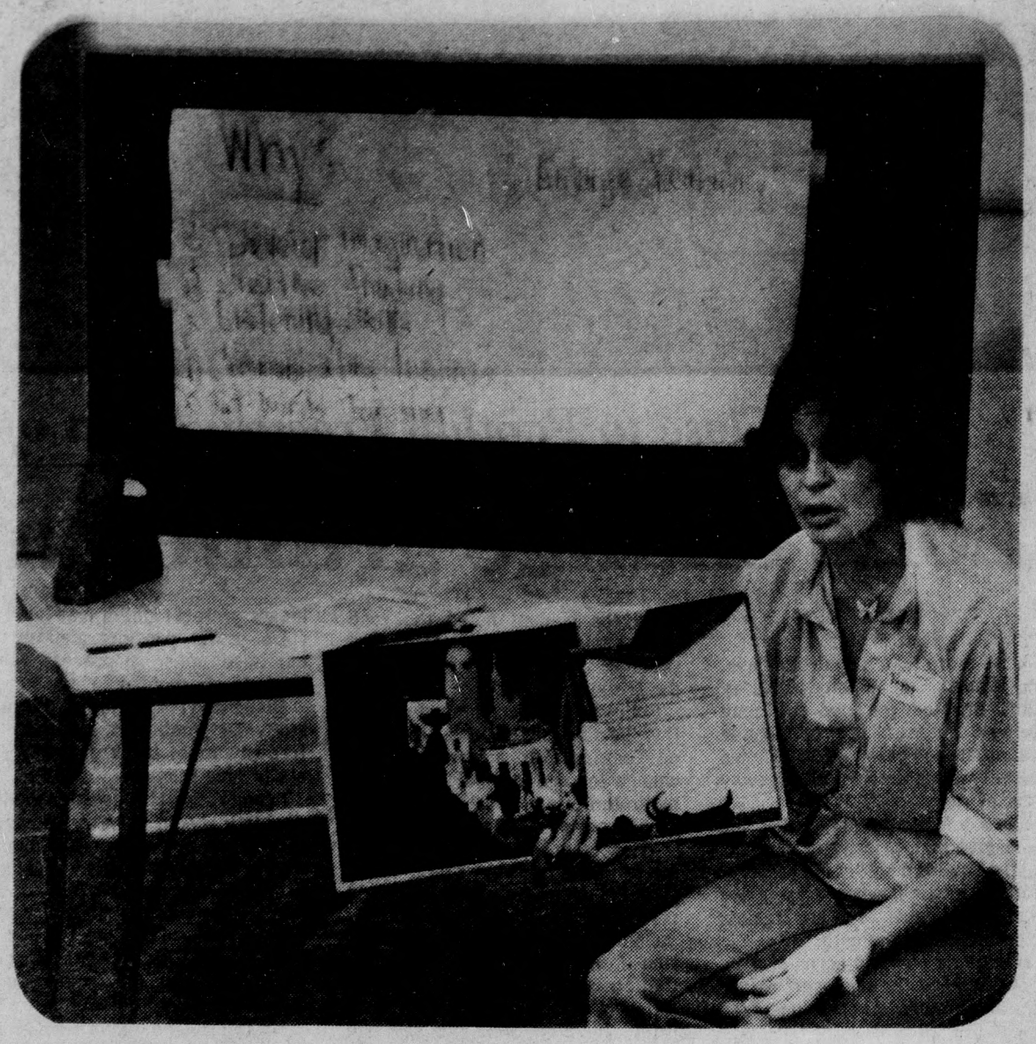

"It's also important to give the author and illustrator credit before reading a story" so the child is aware of whose work the story is, Ms. Howard suggested.

Ms. Gonzalez said the child can't identify and appreciate future books unless he is familiar with a variety of authors.

It helps to "make your voice fit the part of the character you're reading," Ms. Howard said, and acting out the characters also brings the story alive for the child.

"The important thing is to interest your child," Ms. Gonzalez said, "so they'll like what you're doing."

And so the child will want it to continue, Ms. Howard added.

Reading bedtime stories to children not only teaches them basic skills but also provides them with the special time they need, says Peggy Howard, a teacher at Bon View School. She recommends exploring different interpretations of stories with children so they can understand various viewpoints. Because of competition with television and other distractions, Ms. Howard suggests turning off the television or stopping household chores and giving your children the special time they need. # County home inspection program is reorganized

The housing inspection program for unincorporated areas of San Bernardino County has been reorganized to save money and provide better service.

Inspection services will be provided by a division of the county's Environmental Health Services Department. The division will be headed by Phil Minor.

Before the reorganization, housing inspection services were split among three county departments. The reorganization is expected to save an estimated $61,000 annually, said Richard L. Roberts, environmental health services director.

Inspection services for the West End's unincorporated areas will be made available through the department's office in Ontario.

Three sections within the department will provide the inspection services.

One will be responsible for inspection of mobile homes and related structures.

The second will oversee inspections of homes, resorts, mobile home parks, hotels, motels and organized camps.

The third seeks to identify and evaluate what may be substandard homes. Those which are classified as substandard must be repaired or demolished.

If the repairs will cost less than 25 percent of the home's value, the section inspects and approves the work in accordance with uniform building codes.

If an owner cannot or will not perform the repairs, the department can have the building demolished as a public nuisance by contract with a private firm.

An estimated 60 to 70 percent of the cost of the housing inspection program comes from inspection and permit fees and federal community development grants for minor home repairs. The rest comes from the county general fund.

Libby Bacjer awarded

Libby Bacjer has received the first "Woman Helping Women" award given to an outsider by the Montclair Soroptimists International.

The honoree is the power-sewing instructor at Chaffey College's Ontario Montclair Center. She has supervised the sewing of 2,000 T-shirts and 600 pants each year for Santa Claus Inc., made drapes for Vineyard School and uniforms for an Upland Pony League team. She also has sewn uniforms and other items for Pacific State Hospital.

"I was really surprised," said Bacjer about receiving the ward, which was presented by Shirley Ott, president of the Montclair Soroptimists.

Bacjer worked as a power machine operator at many local factories before becoming an instructor for Chaffey College. She currently teaches day and evening power-sewing classes at the Ontario-Montclair Center.

Etiwanda site spiritual home of Buddhists

By DON NEWMAN
Staff Writer

Upon entering the Buddhist temple, visitors could easily imagine themselves in the Far East rather than the far reaches of Rancho Cucamonga.

An Oriental woman, on her knees with her hands clasped and pointed toward an elaborate altar, rapidly chants a Japanese phrase over and over in a sing-song monotone. Engrossed in her chant, she is oblivious to the activity around her, gasping for breath rather than breaking its rhythm.

Inside the door is a rack where visitors can place their shoes. Chinese characters are much in evidence around an airy interior decorated with light browns, off-whites and light-colored, polished wood.

The temple, sitting on 10 rural acres at 7576 Etiwanda Ave., is one of only two Buddhist temples in the continental United States. The other is in Washington, D.C.

The temples serve more as reassuring symbols that the Buddhist religion is alive and well in the West rather than as a focal point for congregations as Christian churches do, according to the local temple's manager, Mike Robbins.

"I think the temple serves more of a ceremonial function," said Robbins, himself a practicing Buddhist. However, he said, it is not unusual for Buddhists to come from as far away as Texas or Nebraska to attend special functions, memorial services or weddings, which average four to five a week.

"The daily activities are conducted in peoples' houses and (in the) community centers," he explained.

This temple was built in 1967 by a Japanese lay organization associated with the Nichiren Shoshu sect of Buddhism as a gift to western members, according to the American organization's (Nichiren Shoshu Academy) public relations representative, John Fake.

It serves members who live as far away as Nebraska, he said, adding that adherents east of there attend the temple in the nation's capital.

Fake said he did not know why Rancho Cucamonga was chosen as the site for the western temple but thought it might have been because the sect could obtain a large parcel of undeveloped land at a reasonable price.

The Nichiren Shoshu sect was founded in 13th century Japan by a priest who clarified the Lotus Sutra, or what Fake described as "the highest teaching of Buddha."

The fundamental belief among adherents is that one's future is determined by the acts in one's past lives.

"In effect, we cause our own destiny," explained Fake, adding that the problem resolved by the practice of Buddhism is how to break the chain binding people to a less than perfect future.

"We all have the capacity to become a Buddha Buddha," he continued, saying that the practice of Buddhism brings this nature out in adherents and allows them to attain enlightenment.

There are about 10,000 active Buddhists in Southern California and about 870 in the West End, according to Fake, who said that the majority of hem are Caucasian.

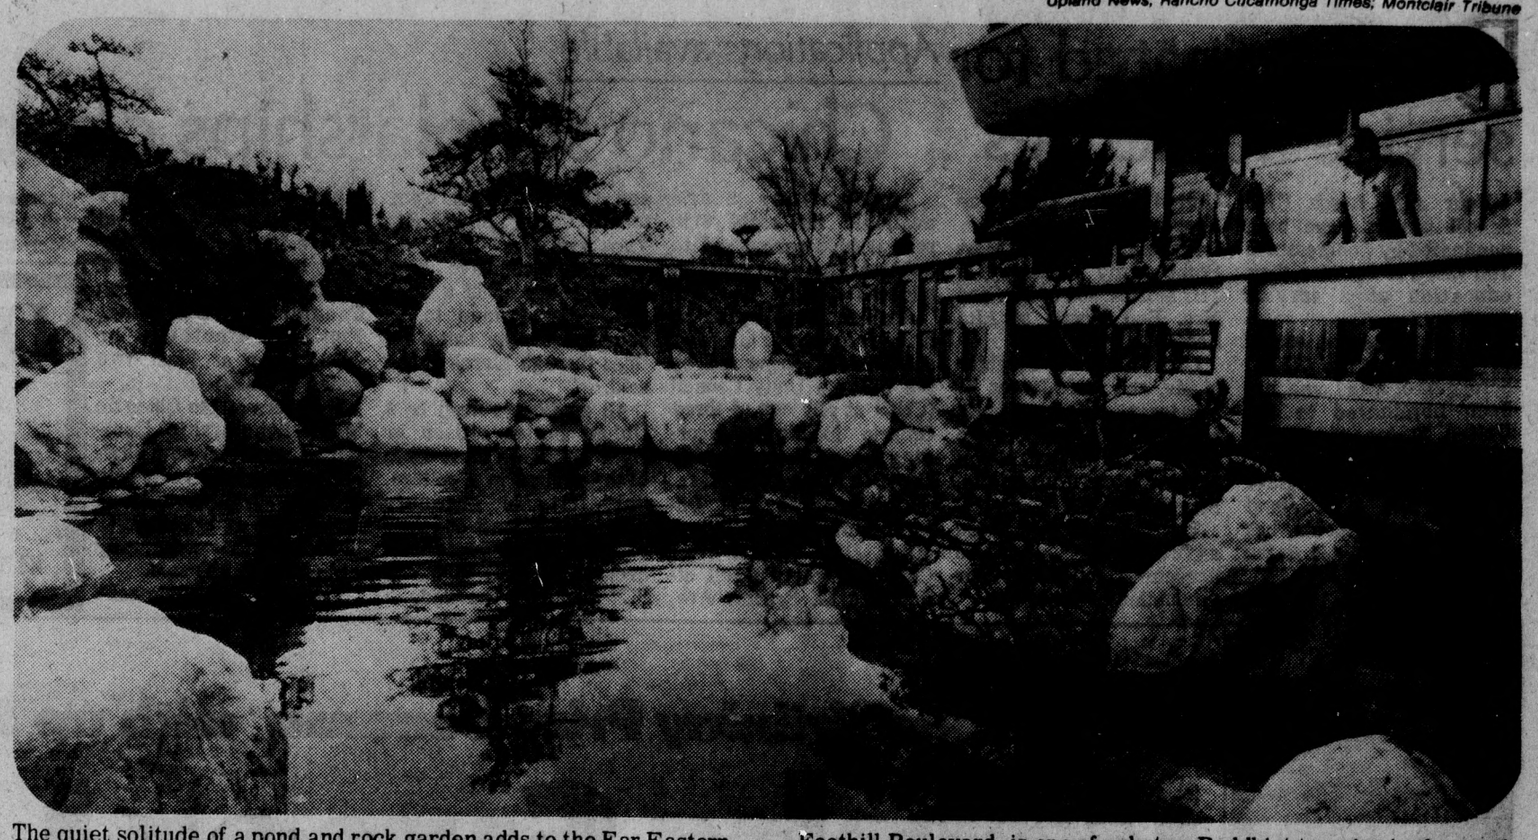

Westerners are turning to the Buddhist faith in ever increasing numbers, said Fake, adding that Buddhists place "no emphasis at all on conversion or pushing religion."

Conversions are "just a natural growth" from exposure to it, he said.

Why is it becoming so popular with the traditionally skeptical westerner?

Because "somebody with no faith or belief in it can practice it and attain results," replied Fake. "It has a tremendous amount of power."

Buddhism makes sense out of life, said Fake.

The quiet solitude of a pond and rock garden adds to the Far Eastern atmosphere of the Buddhist temple in Rancho Cucamonga. The temple, which sits on 10 rural acres on Etiwanda Avenue north of Foothill Boulevard, is one of only two Buddhist temples in the continental United States. The other is in Washington, D.C. (Staff photos by H. Lorren Au Jr.)

John Fake, temple public relations director, examines a memorial altar which sits beside the main altar at the temple. There are about 870 active Buddhists in the West End area.

West End would get one-fourth

County seeks federal funds for neighborhoods

San Bernardino County has formally submitted its application for almost $8.7 million in federal money to upgrade neighborhoods.

About one-fourth of that amount will be spent in the West End.

The board of supervisors has approved the county's application for $8,672,000 to be spent in the year starting July 1. It also submitted the county's plan for spending $26.3 million in federal community development money through 1982.

The application and the plan were submitted to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The department must approve both before the county can receive the money.

The money is intended to upgrade the nation's neighborhoods through the repair of older houses and the improvement of such public facilities as streets, sidewalks, lights, sewer and water lines, parks and neighborhood centers.

The federal grant program is aimed at benefiting persons of low and moderate incomes. It was established by the 1974 Housing and Community Development Act.

Five West End cities — Upland, Rancho Cucamonga, Chino, Montclair and Fontana — have joined with the county in applying for the money. Ontario deals directly with the federal government.

Of the $8,672,000 the county expects to receive in the coming year, the five cities and nearby unincorporated areas will get at least $1.6 million for neighborhood improvements.

This amount does not include money spent in those areas for county-run housing repair programs. That money will raise total aid to the West End to more than $2 million in the next year.

The county expected only $8.1 million in the coming year. But the federal government told county officials last month it will make available another $572,000, a fourth of which will go to West End communities.

Spending priorities were recommended by citizens' advisory committees in 39 different target areas within the county. Where those target areas were within cities, city councils also adopted lists of priorities.

Target areas are defined as neighborhoods in which at least half of the residents have low incomes.

The board of supervisors also conducted several public hearings before it submitted the county's application and plans.

After mid-1982, the money will not be restricted to so-called target areas, said Ann Siracusa, the county's director of community development.

Instead, the money will be spent in accordance with identified community needs and where it will most benefit persons of low and moderate incomes.

How West End cities and communities propose to spend their federal money in the coming year is listed below.

— Upland: $128,700 for street, sidewalk and other neighborhood improvements; $34,726 for contingencies.

— Rancho Cucamonga: $222,474 for street improvements; $100,000 for park development; $33,693 for contingencies.

— Chino: $155,200 for street improvements; $50,000 for curbs and gutters; $20,163 for contingencies.

— Montclair: $82,996 to supplement the county-run housing repair program; $55,000 for the city's own code enforcement program.

— Fontana: $130,900 to buy more land for downtown parking; $65,000 for park development; $12,000 for street improvements; $1,000 for fencing around senior citizens' center; $26,632 for contingencies.

Board opposes legislation

Legislation that would deprive counties of some of the traffic fines they collect was formally opposed Monday by the county board of supervisors.

The bill could cost San Bernardino County government as much as $300,000, County Administrative Officer Earl Goodwin told the supervisors.

The bill was scheduled for a state Senate vote last week but was delayed.

Under current law, counties keep the money they receive from bails and fines for failure to appear on a parking or traffic violation if the money was paid after a court issues a warrant but before an arrest is made.

County GOP unit will meet

The San Bernardino County Federation of Republican Women will hold the monthly board of directors meeting Friday at the Woman's Clubhouse of Rialto, 219 N. Riverside Ave., Rialto, beginning with coffee at 9:30 a.m.

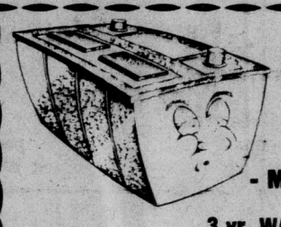

Morning reports will be followed by a luncheon, then a talk on "I Knew Lincoln" by the Rev. Franklin Greene of Redlands.

Reservations should be made by Monday with Mary Bradley at 985-5842 or Republican Headquarters at 981-8166.

Four nominated for service academies

Four Alta Loma High School seniors have been nominated by Congressman Jim Lloyd to continue their education at a service academy.

Darryl Scroggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. D.G. Scroggins of Alta Loma, has been nominated to the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado.

Janice Brabec, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josef Brabec of Alta Loma, has also been nominated to the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado.

Nominated to attend West Point Army Academy is Jeff Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Morris of Alta Loma.

Lori Vanderet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Vanderet of Alta Loma, received a nomination to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland.

The students will begin attendance at the academies following their graduation in June.

Gary Alan Good, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Good of Chino, recently was awarded the Eagle Scout badge at a ceremony at Covenant United Methodist Church in Pomona. Gary started his scouting career in Cub Scout Pack 210, sponsored by E.J. Marshall School, joined Boy Scout Troop 212, sponsored by the Chino Firemen's Association and later by the First Baptist Church of Chino, and transferred to Troop 201, sponsored by the Chino Rotary Club.

Daughters will show fashions

A "Hearts and Flowers" fashion show will be sponsored Saturday, Feb. 24, by the Rancho San Jose Parlor 307, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The benefit affair will be held at noon in the Claremont Colleges Faculty House, 701 College Way, Claremont. Proceeds will go to the pioneer Palmoares cemetery, which the parlor now owns; the statewide Children's Foundation of the Native Daughters; veterans' affairs; and Americanism and civic participation.

Mrs. Paul Strickland is ways and means chairman, and Nancy Hogan is luncheon coordinator. Reservations should be in to Mrs. Alphonse B. Fages at 622-5674 by Wednesday, Feb. 21.

Fashions by Mona's Dress Shops will be narrated by Pat Razazi, accompanied by Mrs. C. Wayne Sullivan.

Models will include: Mrs. Lloyd F. Wheeler, Mrs. Donald Carpenter, Faith Jolly, Mrs. Perry E. Hillburg, Mrs. Ben Watson, Mrs. Clyde Warren, Mrs. William Southworth, Mrs. Robert Harper, Mrs. Thomas Garcia and Patty Strickland.

Chairmen are: Joyce Elaine Pierce, decorations; Mrs. Edwin Greenwald, awards; Mrs. Louis Baiz, models and programs; Mrs. Harry Carlisle, music; and Myrtle Pool, favors.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Walter Kawa, president; Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. James Green, Mrs. Mack Hoffman, Mrs. D.L. Guthrey and Miss Pierce.

Applications available

Chicano scholarships offered

Applications are available for eight $150 scholarships earmarked to help American college students of Latin descent.

Applicants may pick up necessary forms for scholarships sponsored by the Chicano Unity Council (CUC) at any one of three Ontario locations, according to CUC Executive Director Rosie Contreras.

The locations are: Ontario Community Relations office, 217 S. Lemon Ave.; Chicano Unity Council office, 638 E. Francis Ave. and the Bon View Community Center, 1010 S. Bon View Ave.

Applications have been available for about a week and will continue to be accepted at the same offices through March 9, she said.

All applicants must be a United States citizen or legal resident, must have been enrolled in a college, university or graduate school for at least one year and must have a grade point average of at least 2.0 (a "C" average), she said.

Although applicants needn't be attending a local college to be eligible, they must have been a resident of Ontario, Upland, Rancho Cucamonga, Etiwanda, Fontana, Montclair or Chino for at least two years, she said.

Members of the Cinco de Mayo Scholarship Committee will interview eligible applicants, reviewing their grades, motivation, sincerity and integrity along with past community involvement, she said.

She said the applicant's income, health and family will also be taken into consideration during the interview.

Applicants may not be related to any member of the review board, she added.

Any other scholarships, grants or loans applicants receive for their schooling will not affect eligibility, she said.

Dorian Gray

Cal Poly Pomona's English department will present the film version of "The Picture of Dorian Gray", March 1, at 4:30 p.m. in the University Union Theater. Admission will be charged.

A PROGRAM OF SANTA FE FEDERAL ™

Introducing Health Alert: Our savings plan for lives.

At Santa Fe Federal, our interest goes well beyond just helping you save and borrow money wisely.

That's why we're sponsoring Health Alert — a community-wide emergency information and medical education program.

Health Alert starts when you pick up a free emergency information kit containing two Health Alert display stickers, medical information forms for each member of your family and a special Health Alert pouch.

At home, putting Health Alert to work is easy. The completed forms go into the special Health Alert pouch which, in turn, goes inside your refrigerator — by far, the safest, easiest-to-find "vault" common to every home. Then, one Health Alert sticker goes on your refrigerator, the other goes on or near your front door. These bright stickers quickly alert all cooperating authorities that you're a Health Alert participant and that vital health information is waiting inside the refrigerator.

In a real emergency — when every second counts — your Health Alert kit gives policemen, firemen and paramedics immediate access to your family's relevant health information — including doctors' names, blood types, allergies and other special problems.

And that's important. Because without a word spoken, Health Alert automatically gives authorities the information they need to give you prompt, proper care.

In other cities, programs like Health Alert have saved more than time. They've saved lives.

There's safety in our numbers, too.

Aside from Health Alert, you'll find that Santa Fe Federal has a lot to offer. Like the strength and safety of more than $530 million in total assets. And a surprising variety of high-interest producing savings plans that compound your interest daily. All, of course, at the maximum rates the law allows.

So stop by any Santa Fe Federal Savings and Loan Association office and pick up your Health Alert kit. There's no obligation, and participation is free for all our customers and friends.

We think you'll discover, at Santa Fe Federal, everything we do is in your best interest.

For new OMSD superintendent

Citizens seek a 'people person'

By KEN SWART
Staff Writer

The next superintendent of the Ontario-Montclair School District should be able to deal more effectively with the public, the professional consultant hired to help with the selection process has indicated.

Dr. Hilton Bell, hired by the district to help select a superintendent to replace Dr. Jack Jones, said this was a primary need expressed by community and district representatives during two days of interviews last week.

Bell said the people who contacted him indicated they wanted "a people person who could show warmth and concern for students and still be knowledgeable in the financial and legal matters required to administer a school district."

According to Bell, representatives also indicated the need for a superintendent who was sensitive to the needs of minorities.

Bell, speaking in his office-home in San Clemente, said the job opening would be advertised in professional educational journals, and he expected from 80 to 100 people to apply, including several already employed in the district.

The final date applications will be accepted is March 30, Bell said, and applications will then be reviewed by a screening committee.

After the screening is completed, the board will interview from 10 to 15 top applicants and choose a new superintendent in April, Bell indicated. The new superintendent would be expected to take office July 1.

"We stressed the need for someone with better human relations skills, and with a background in school finance to help us deal with the effects of Proposition 13," said Kathy Kinley, past president of the Ontario Montclair Teachers Association.

Beverly Cowan, current association president, said for several years teachers have felt progressively more alienated from administrators because many have been brought in from outside the district.

"This makes the teachers feel uncertain about who's making the decisions and more inclined to ask for more guarantees (in contracts)," Mrs. Cowan said.

The new superintendent should be willing to stay in the district longer than for only a few years, Mrs. Kinley added.

"Whoever the new superintendent is, he should also spend some time evaluating the (state and federal) programs we already have before adding new ones," Mrs. Kinley added.

Representatives from the parent district advisory council of the federal Title I program agreed with the association that the new superintendent should be able to deal well with people.

"We told Dr. Bell we wanted whoever was hired to support community involvement," said Eddie Mae Taylor, community liaison.

She also said the council wanted someone who was accessible to parents, "so we'd be able to see him and talk to him and have him listen to us."

Since the district might be required to participate in the Metropolitan (busing) Plan currently being proposed for the Los Angeles area, Mrs. Taylor said, "We want a person capable of handling the desegregation and busing situation, and we want him to be able to adapt and find alternatives."

Because the council exists through the requirements of a federal program, added Jacky Rosenthal, past president of the council, the new superintendent should be supportive of such programs.

"Because of our make-up we want a superintendent who is aware of the compensatory education (Title I) program, and how important it is for parents to be involved."

Regarding new federal or state programs, "Wherever there is a need for one to help the kids, we hope he'll make an effort to get one," Mrs. Taylor said.

Many parents are not aware that programs exist, so "the need to disseminate information to the public and inform the parents is great," Mrs. Rosenthal said.

Charles Robar, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, also agreed the new superintendent should have excellent human relations skills.

Robar has said he plans to retire from the district soon so he does not intend to submit an application for the superintendent's position.

The new superintendent "would have to be heavy on public and employee relations skills so that some of the feelings that have developed can be lost," Robar said.

He noted because a contract has still not been reached with teachers, "it would be critical to find someone able to weld people together in a trusting environment."

Pam O'Neil, president of the districtwide Parent Teachers Association (PTA), agreed that the new superintendent "should have more contact with the public, especially parents.

"The more parents know, the better they're able to get involved and help the schools," Mrs. O'Neil said.

She noted parents are infrequently called upon to participate in policy-making decisions, so the new superintendent should be more active in soliciting parent involvement.

Scrapbook for city archives presented

An award-winning scrapbook detailing Rancho Cucamonga's controversial incorporation campaign, compiled by members of the city's woman's club, is the first item donated to the community's archives.

"It was just terrific," beamed Mayor James Frost, who received the volume on behalf of the city at a recent council meeting.

"We're really pleased to have it — that's a part of the history of the city that would have been lost otherwise," he continued.

The volume was "collected over a period of two years prior to our becoming a city," said the Rancho Cucamonga Woman's Club President Barbara Verburg.

"It's a compilation of everything that went on in the tri-cities," she continued.

More than a third of the club's 98 members worked a total of 3,500 hours putting the book together, she said, adding that she did not know how much money was invested in it.

The volume includes newspaper clippings, pamphlets, official documents and anything else the women could find that related to the incorporation campaign.

Mrs. Verburg said that the book, completed as a club-required project, won five awards. Three of them were for various levels of competition among woman's clubs and two from a major department store chain.

The project is now stored in the city manager's office until the community historical commission recommends some means for storing historical material.

3 residents honored by local Air National Guard

Master Sgt. Richard H. Cook of the 163rd Tactical Air Support Squadron, California Air National Guard, has been recently named guardsman of the year 1978 for his exemplary attitude and work with the Ontario-based unit.

Col. Lloyd A. Hutton, commander of the 163rd TASGp, bestowed additional honors upon Master Sgt. R.F. "Mike" Wysocki, who was designated the units' outstanding non-commissioned officer (NCO) for June-December 1978 and Airman First Class Margret F. Durand, deemed the outstanding airman for the latter half of 1978.

MSGT Cook serves as the first sergeant for the Combat Support Squadron, acting as a liason to the commander. MSGT Cook has been a member of the 163rd TASGp for 8½ years, serving five years active duty with the Navy earlier in his career. In addition to carrying out his duties as first sergeant, MSGT Cook has annually assumed leadership roles in many Guard community based activities such as the 163rd's Muscular Dystrophy Campaign, the units' United Way drive and a Christmas oriented "We Care" program — all of which provide support throughout the local community.

MSGT Cook and his wife Patricia and their five children recently moved to Yucaipa where Cook hopes to continue his involvement with youth athletics. In the past Cook has coached Junior All-American Football and served as a Little League president for Alta Loma.

Richard Cook

MSGT Wysocki is the unit's NCO in charge of group training. It is his job to review all the Squadrons' On the Job Training programs (OJT) — evaluating, critiquing and documenting his findings. Wysocki also organizes and conducts an OJT administrators' class monthly to insure proficiency in Air Force skill courses is being met and airmen are obtaining a higher level of applicable skill knowledge to carry out their particular duties.

MSGT Wysocki has been with the 163rd TASPg 5½ years, coming from the 148th Communication Squadron in Compton. Prior to his Air Guard affiliation Wysocki also served with the Navy.

A1C Margret Durand, relatively new to Ontario, serves as an X-ray technician in the base clinic.

Although she has been with the Ontario Guard unit less than a year, A1C Durand said she has learned a great deal and really has enjoyed working with the people of the 163rd TASGp.

Montclair library plans events

Montclair Branch Library is celebrating Black History Month with a cultural program designed for children and adults. The show will be staged at the library on Feb. 27 at 7 p.m.

East Base Line library associate Joyce Warhop, Barstow Bookmobile library assistant Helen Riley and Edith Williams, a substitute teacher and school librarian from Riverside, will be the performers.

The presentation will involve storytelling, poetry, dancing and singing. Included will be a reading of "The Creation," Jamaican and African dancing, Anansi (the Spider) stories from Africa, songs of freedom, a blues segment, a Civil Rights Movement speech and communal singing.

Youth baseball

A dwindling registration factor has been noted in many West End youth summer baseball and softball programs, but others are feeling growing pains.

Encroachment of other sports, notably the expanding soccer programs, is one factor being pointed out by youth leaders as to the possibility of reducing the number of teams in various leagues.

Meanwhile, others are expanding.

Boys programs are offered in the 6 through 18 age range, while girls can also compete in the various Little League programs, all of which have been integrated, but also have a choice of competing in softball in five West End cities — Rancho Cucamonga, Montclair, Chino, Upland and Ontario.

Certified birth certificates are mandatory and each registrant must be accompanied by at least one parent or guardian.

In most cases, a registration fee is required.

Chaffey school classes help pregnant girls, teen mothers

By KAREN ALTMAN
Staff Writer

She's 16 years old. Or 17. Or 14. And she's pregnant.

Life is very different for her now. She faces a whirl of decisions: get an abortion, give the baby up for adoption, keep it?

The father of her child may have abandoned her. Her parents may have thrown her out of the house. Her schoolwork is either suffering or she's dropped out.

Once the baby is born — if she's decided to keep it — she has to find someone to care for it while she finishes school or goes to work.

To the rescue of these girls comes an institution that at one time may have rejected them entirely: the school system.

Chaffey College, along with the Chaffey Joint Union High School District, operates a School Age Parenting Infant-Toddler program for pregnant girls and teen mothers.

Pregnant girls in the program attend Young Mother classes at Valley View High School, the district's continuation school.

The Chino Unified School District runs a similar program at its Buena Vista continuation school, serving all schools in the district.

Chaffey College's Infant Care Center opened in early December in temporary quarters at the First Church of God parish hall in Ontario. It will soon be moved to a trailer at Valley View High School.

The program strives to both prepare the girls for motherhood and to bolster their feelings about themselves as human beings, says founder and director Pat Mohr.

Ms. Mohr, director of the Child Development Services Program at Chaffey College, wrote the application that led to a $78,000 grant from the state Department of Education.

"These girls were asking, 'How do I stay in school? I can't wait until my child is 2 years old to go back,' " Ms. Mohr said.

The 18 girls enrolled in parent education classes drop their babies off at the center in the morning and then attend classes at various high schools in the district. Each is required to work two hours weekly at the Infant Center.

"Our focus is the well-being of both the parent and the child," Ms. Mohr said. "We're trying to break the cycle of feeling worthless, of having low self-esteem."

The Infant Center is staffed from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. by a full-time director and three teachers and several part-time college interns.

The Chino district's child care center opened at the Buena Vista campus in November. Twelve babies are cared for at the center and 25 pregnant girls or student mothers take School Age Parent classes.

Both Ms. Mohr and Donnie Weaver, director of Chino's program, say a major problem is convincing pregnant girls or teenage mothers to return to class.

"We're funded for 13 pregnant girls but only have five at the present," Mrs. Weaver said. "There are many more out there."

While researching for the grant, Ms. Mohr identified 60 girls who were pregnant or already had babies in the Chaffey district, which includes five high schools and three alternative schools.

Total enrollment in both Chaffey's infant-toddler program and pregnant minor program is only 36 teen-age mothers.

Involving teen-age fathers in the parenting programs is another problem. Fathers who show any interest are invited to participate, as are all students — of either sex — interested in learning about parenthood.

Finding a place in the community to house the Chaffey program until Valley View High's trailer can be completed was difficult, Ms. Mohr said.

"We knocked on a lot of doors," she said. "People were not too receptive. Our goal is to help these girls, not moralize."

More girls are keeping their babies now, Ms. Mohr said — about 90 percent. "Even five years ago the social pressure was to give up the baby. But now there's social pressure both from adults and peers to keep the baby."

County adoption agencies are very aware of that trend. At the San Bernardino Child Welfare Department, there are 300 names on a waiting list for new-born infants.

"We just don't have the babies," said Jane Hehnke, child welfare supervisor at the county's Ontario unit. "It's kind of sad, because there are lots of people who could be very capable parents."

Of the 91 children put up for adoption in the county last year, only 44 were infants, said Tom Sansone, chief of the county adoption service.

Only half of the 30 teen-age mothers who sought help from the agency last year gave up their babies for adoption, Sansone said.

"People have become more accepting of the unwed mother," he said. "The stigma attached to her is not as sharp any more."

The bulk of children available for adoption are 5 years old and up, Sansone said. Many have been abused or neglected.

"We get very few 2 or 3-year-olds," he said. "Women who decide to keep their babies give it a go the first couple of years, then maybe end up back here when the kids are 5 or 6 and they can't handle it any more."

Sansone said he believes many teen-age mothers become pregnant on purpose.

"They feel if they can produce their own child, there will be someone in the world that loves them," he said. "But a young child only takes, he doesn't give."

A Valley View High School teen-ager who was 16 when she became pregnant shares that belief.

"I know a lot of girls who have been mistreated all their lives by their parents," she said. "They want something they can say is all theirs."

A peer counselor at the high school, the teen-ager said she talks to many girls who share the problems she faces with her 9½-month-old infant.

"Some girls think having a baby means playing house," she said. "I'll come home from work and say hey, kid, go to sleep. But he'll want to play all night. I get so mad sometimes I'll almost throw him in his crib."

Teens cope with parenthood

"You go to a man counselor and he'll say, 'I know how you feel.' How can he know what it feels like to be 16 and pregnant and have everyone against you?"

Her name is Marylou. She's 18 now and will graduate from high school soon. She plans to attend Mt. San Antonio College and become a counselor — for teen-age mothers, like herself.

Unlike many of her peers, Marylou was using birth control when she became pregnant. What happened was her mother disapproved of her daughter's sexual activity and threw away her birth control pills.

"One time my mom had thrown away my Pill and I didn't have a ride to the clinic," Marylou said. "I missed two days. That's when I got pregnant."

She married her baby's father 13 months ago but found she couldn't stand his drinking problem. They separated six months ago and are getting a divorce.

She now lives with her mother, who she said was very supportive once the initial shock wore off.

A student at Valley View High School in Ontario, Marylou has great praise for Chaffey College's Infant Center.

"The center has made it possible for so many girls to finish school," she said. "Just because you have a child at age 13 or 18, your life doesn't stop."

*

Debbie, 17, is very, very pregnant. She's already passed her due date for delivery.

But until her baby decides it's time to make its debut into the world, Debbie keeps on attending Young Mother classes at Valley View High.

"Everyone here is really friendly," says Debbie, who appears younger than her years. "If you have problems you can always talk about them here."

A Montclair resident, Debbie lives with her grandparents. She had planned to have an abortion at first, but says her family talked her out of it.

The father of her child is not around. "He split to Las Vegas when he found out," she said.

If it wasn't for the Chaffey program, she would have quit school. "Now I'm planning to go to college and become a registered nurse," she said.

*

Christine 16, is 6½ months pregnant. Ready for her new role, she wears a T-shirt with "Mom" embroidered across the front.

She married the father of her child Jan. 1. She lives with her mother in Ontario while she and her new husband search for an apartment.

"My mom cried a lot at first," Christine said. "But my boyfriend and I had known each other a long time."

Constant morning sickness while attending Ontario High almost made Christine drop out of school. A counselor told her about Valley View's program.

"I'm learning a lot," she said. "We do exercises in the morning and then we earn about delivery and how to take care of the baby."

*

Sometimes a teen-age girl who becomes pregnant is rejected by her family. In addition to all her other problems, she's homeless.

Linda Seal of Chino is one of several foster parents in the area who have taken in a teen-age mother and her baby.

Her foster daughter, Bonnie, 15, was shunted from foster home to foster home. In between, she lived with her mother, who told her if she kept her child she couldn't live at home.

"I was a teen-age mother myself," said Mrs. Seal.

"Bonnie takes care of her baby all by herself," Mrs. Seal said. "I don't do anything but babysit, which was our agreement."

A student at Don Antonio Lugo High School in Chino, Bonnie and her son participate in the Buena Vista child care program.

"Her main problem is coping with wanting to still be a teen-ager and being a parent," Mrs. Seal said. "It's a hard thing to do at that age."

Society does not help people cope with divorce

By KEN SWART
Staff Writer

Society does little to help people cope with divorce and leaves most people alone and confused afterwards, two mental health specialists said recently during a seminar.

The seminar on "How to Cope With Loss" was sponsored by the Central Valley Mental Health Association.

Dr. Wolfgang Klebel and Dr. Maya Lee spoke during a day-long seminar at Chaffey College. Members of the association, both are beginning private practices in San Bernardino and are divorced.

"Divorce is the second most stressing event in a person's life after the death of a spouse and there should be a way of dealing with it," Klebel said. "Yet from the standpoint of relatives and friends it is the most ignored event of all."

Stories may be written and television dramas produced, "but when it comes to personal feelings, people don't want to deal with someone else's divorce," he added.

"Society doesn't give you help with a divorce the way it does through the death of a mate or a relative," Klebel said.

"It's acceptable to mourn after a death but after a divorce, friends turn away, relationships change and suddenly in the places where you felt welcome as a couple you now feel uncomfortable as a single," he said.

Men usually have a harder time dealing with a divorce at the beginning because "even though they are usually more involved with their jobs and can draw strength from it," Klebel said. Men also are usually less familiar with such tasks as cleaning and cooking.

"Women may have less identification with their jobs but may have children to support them" during the divorce, Klebel added, so it is usually more difficult for women to deal with a divorce on a long term basis.

Ms. Lee agreed. "It is sometimes easier for men to cope with a divorce because their primary identity is with their jobs, but men are not encouraged to be aware of and deal with their feelings the way women are. It's still not okay for a man to cry.

"It's also easier for a woman to ask for and get support, but she may need it more because as her life shifts, she may be forced to get a job," she added.

Sometimes getting this support is not easy for the woman however, according to Ms. Lee.

"When I got my divorce, my friends were suspicious because they thought I wanted their husbands. My very presence was a threat to them because it made them look at their own lives," she said.

"And I got calls from the husbands of friends who knew I was divorced and thought that this somehow made me wildly sexual," Ms. Lee added.

"It's also considered that a woman is a failure if she's divorced," she said, adding that even her own children were constantly considered the product of a "broken home."

A divorce should never be prolonged or suspended for the sake of children, Klebel said, because "the longer you've been in a position, the harder it is to make a decision. But the more satisfaction you get once the decision has been made.

"The key issue to deal with is 'Why do I feel like I did something wrong?' and along with that comes the question of the children's affiliation," Klebel said. "You want to know what your children are thinking.

"But it is important that children are included. They need to know what's happening and that it's not their fault because all children, no matter the age, tend to blame themselves for the breakup," he said.

Ms. Lee added that not only will children blame themselves for the breakup, but so will both mates involved, regardless of who divorces who.

"We're not only afraid of what we did wrong the first time but what we might do wrong the next time," Klebel said.

The best way to deal with the uncertainty of future relations is to remember, "Unless we think about what we are doing, we tend to do to others as has been done to us," he said.

The best way to deal with these issues is through counseling and outside activities, Klebel recommended.

Ms. Lee stressed the importance of counseling several times and added, "Something that helps a great deal is getting involved in activities with other women. The competition is so great that making and keeping women friends is a real support.

"Friends do react in strange ways," Ms. Lee added, "because they feel guilty around you," so it's important to find new activities and make new friends.

"The trouble is that at the beginning you wander around not knowing where you belong," Klebel said, "but to be ourselves we need contact, and now that we've lost a long established one, we need to develop others."

Eight appointed to serve on six county boards

Eight West End residents have been appointed to six San Bernardino County boards and commissions.

Three of the appointments were made by Supervisor Robert O. Townsend of Chino. The others were made by Supervisor Cal McElwain of Upland. The appointments were confirmed by the full board of supervisors.

Townsend reappointed Martin Echito and Marcel Valois to new four-year terms on the five-member advisory commission for the Chino Rural Fire Protection District. They were originally appointed March 17, 1975.

The district provides fire protection for Chino and nearby unincorporated areas. It is governed by the board of supervisors.

Echito, an insurance agent, and Valois are Chino residents.

Townsend also appointed Rita C. Carroll to a full four-year term on the county's 15-member committee for emergency medical care. Ms. Carroll, a nurse, was first appointed July 10, 1978.

The committee advises the board of supervisors on matters relating to emergency medical transportation and treatment.

McElwain made the following appointments:

— Janet Woodring of Alta Loma to the 17-member county mental health advisory board. She will serve a three-year term. She replaces Julian T. Lopez, whose term expired.

— Michael Sgambati of Fontana to the 30-member Inland Counties Health Systems Agency governing board. The board oversees health planning in four inland counties, including San Bernardino County. Sgambati is an executive of Local 2869 of the United steelworkers of America, which represents most employees at Kaiser Steel in Fontana.

— Betty Green of Upland and June Wallin of Ontario to the 15-member Commission on the Status of Women. Mrs. Green replaces Joanne Williams of Ontario, who resigned. Mrs. Wallin replaces Jeanne Hamilton of Alta Loma, whose term expired.

The commission was formed in late 1974 to promote anti-discrimination efforts.

— George W. Martin of Rancho Cucamonga to the nine-member county retirement board. The board oversees the county reretirement system.

Martin, who is retired, will replace Supervisor Joseph Kamansky. McElwain defeated Kamansky in the Nov. 7 election. A normal term is three years, but Kamansky's unexpired term runs only until Dec. 31.

In Alta Loma class

Math students get extra help

The new type of math class will be offered to Alta Loma High School students beginning second semester.

The class is open to anyone needing help in certain areas of math. All the areas that will be covered in the class will prepare students for the math competency test.

The class will be held in Room 503 during third period. Mrs. Joanne Harris will be teaching the class.

This math class will have no requirements. Students do not have to come in every day. They may come in only on the days when their weaker areas in math are being covered.

All operations of math will be covered in this class. A schedule of the areas to be covered will be available in the counseling offices. The bulletin will also contain information on what the class will be covering each week. The format of the class each day will consist of an explanation, examples, and a worksheet given by Mrs. Harris. Students are not required to turn in any work.

If students do not understand the work, they may come to Mrs. Harris for individual help. It is up to the student to come to Mrs. Harris on his own for individual help. This class will help students gain responsibility as well as get the help needed in math.

This new class is a trial program. If it is successful, it will continue to be offered next year. Although students do not earn credits through this class, they still have many opportunities and much to be gained by attending the class.

Alta Loma student gets school award

Alta Loma Junior High School student Karianne Kline was honored as the latest "Warrior of the Week" at the junior high school, it was announced recently by James E. Dyer, principal.

Miss Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kline of Alta Loma, is an art student at the school.

In World Missions Conference

Area churches to participate

Twenty-eight Southern Baptist churches of the Calvary - Arrowhead Association will participate in two four-day sessions of a World Missions Conference Sunday through Feb. 25.

Earl Crawford, director of missions for the association which is headquartered in Riverside, said six missionaries ministering in foreign countries and nine domestic missionaries will be involved in the week-long program.

The conference is designed to acquaint the people with ethnic and cultural ministries at home and abroad, "to life the vision of the church," Crawford said. It challenges the church to become more active in supporting the more than 2,300 missionaries engaged in meeting the physical and spiritual needs of people in all 50 states and the 2,700 denominational missionaries, serving in 89 foreign countries.

A dinner program and rally will open the conferences tonight, with conference leaders from the host churches and the guest speakers assembling at the Magnolia Avenue Baptist Church (Magnolia and Adams) in Riverside.

Sunday through Wednesday, churches in western Riverside County will host missionary speakers.

Conferences will be conducted in the San Bernardino County area of Ontario, beginning Thursday night through Sunday night, Feb. 25. South Euclid Baptist Church located at 1960 South Euclid Ave. in Ontario, Allyn Avenue Baptist Church located at 904 East "D" Street in Ontario, First Southern Pomona located at 11548 Pipeline Avenue in Pomona and Vineyard Baptist Church at 1725 E. 4th St. in Ontario will be the churches in this area participating in the conference.

Conference scheduled by church in Upland

"Past - Present - Future" is the theme of the annual Prophetic Conference to be held Feb. 25-28 at the Foothill Baptist Church of Upland. This year, five men outstanding in Biblical interpretation will be present to share what the Prophetic Scriptures teach as they are related to the progress of history.

Sunday morning, Feb. 25, at 10:30 a.m., Father Curtis Mitchell, professor of Biblical Studies at Biola College in La Mirada, will speak on "One Minute After the Rapture."

Sunday at 6 p.m., Dr. Earl Radmacher, president of Western Conservative Baptist Seminary in Portland, Ore., will speak on "Does Israel Have a Right to the Land?"

Monday at 7 p.m., Dr. Lehman Strauss, author and conference speaker, will present "The End of This Present World."

Tuesday evening at 7 p.m., Dr. Lee Toms, pastor of Arcade Baptist Church in Sacramento, will speak on the topic, "Unfading Things."

Wednesday evening at 7 p.m., Dr. Donald H. Launstein, president of Southwestern Baptist Bible College in Phoenix, will present, "The Gaps of the Future."

The public is invited to each service. The Foothill Baptist Church is located at 1330 W. 15th Street in Upland.

Enrollment up at School of Theology

Students at the School of Theology at Claremont come from 21 states and 15 countries to participate in a variety of programs ranging from preparation for parish ministry to counseling and audio-visual communications.

Both ethnic and female enrollments increased in the fall semester. Women students make up 30 percent of the student body, an increase of 4 percent from last spring.

The student population includes 13 blacks, 24 Pacific and Asian - Americans, 28 international students, three Hispanic, and 235 white students.

Students come from 37 denominations, with Roman Catholic students showing the greatest percentage increase — more than tripling from six students to 19.

Other denominations include United Methodist, 132 students; Disciples of Christ, 32; Congregational, 26; Presbyterian, 25; and Episcopalian, 7.

The Episcopal Church also operates the Episcopal Theological School at Claremont, Bloy House at the campus. Bloy school provides a weekend program of theological instruction for people who hold weekday secular jobs.

School officials report it costs $8,000 per student to keep the school open each year. Student tuition accounts for $2,500 of that total, with the remainder coming from gifts from churchs, foundations, and individuals.

Many students also receive tuition assistance in the form of grants and scholarships.

The seminary, located at Foothill Boulevard and College Avenue in Claremont, is associated with the United Methodist Church and the Disciples of Christ.

Hadassah fundraiser set for Saturday

The Sharon Chapter of Hadassah will sponsor its major fund - raising event of the year at a Bid 'n Buy auction on Saturday evening, February 24, 7:00 p.m., at Taylor Hall, 1717 North Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont. All proceeds will provide funds urgently needed for Hadassah's medical services.

Co - chairwomen Rita Wodinsky and Phyllis Dickens state that it will be an evening of fun, desserts, and background music. However, the main event will be the interesting merchandise and unique services to be bid for and bought at bargain auction prices. These services will include exciting vacations, tickets to amusements, sports events, musical events and much more. There is no admission charge and the public is cordially invited to attend.

February 24th will also mark the 67th birthday of Hadassah, whose beginnings were grounded in the health needs of the children of Palestine. It supports the international known Hadassah - Hebrew University Medical and Research Center in Jerusalem, serving all citizens of Israel without regard to race, creed or religion. Hadassah is also concerned domestically through its American Affairs Committee in the areas of health, education and child welfare.

For further information regarding the Bid 'n Buy Auction, please phone 624-7109 or 626-5650.

Montclair church to conduct a Parish Renewal in March

"Christianity on Prime Time" will be the theme of the Parish Renewal which will begin at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, 10191 Central Ave., Montclair, on March 3 and continue through March 9.

The noted Franciscan Father Emery Tang issues an open invitation to all people to come, "Catch the spirit. Come to life!"

Father Tang began his priestly career as a high school teacher and principal in northern California. Then he was associate producer of Teleketics and Tele Spots at the Franciscan Communications Center in Los Angeles.

Father Tang will preach at all weekend masses on March 3 and 4. He will begin on March 5 at 10:30 a.m. for non-working adults, in the afternoon for CCD children and our Lady of Lourdes school children and at 7:30 p.m. for other adults.

The program for the week of March 5-9 includes:

—March 5 at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. "Let's Talk about Ourselves." Who am I? Why am I here? Why do I do what I do? Can I love myself without being obnoxious? In addition, there will be a renewal of baptismal commitment.

—March 6 at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. "Let's Talk about Others." Who is my brother/sister? Is it possible to love everybody? Why bother? What is love, anyway? A renewal of confirmation commitment will be included.

—March 7 at 10:30 and 7:30. "Let's talk about God, Jesus and His Holy Spirit." What does doing God's will mean? How do I love God? Are the Ten Commandments outmoded? There will be a renewal of marriage commitment and religious promises.

—March 8 10:30 and 7:30. "Let's Talk about Our World." Is this the best possible world? Good vs. evil. What is the Christian attitude toward the world? A rite of reconciliation (communal penance) will be held.

—March 9 at 10:30 and 7:30. What is the mission of the church in the world? Are all religions the same? What ought it mean to be a Catholic? Celebration of eucharist by a parish will be renewed.

Miedema set to lecture

Valley Christian Center is inviting the public Friday at 7:30 p.m. to hear special guest speaker the Rev. Bill Miedema.

Rev. Miedema is the Pastor of the El Dorado Park Community Church of Long Beach. He has served as Pastor in Traverse City, Mich., also he is an associate of Robert Schuller, Garden Grove Community Christian Church.

Pastor Miedema has a well-known TV Ministry and is heard on 17 radio stations.

Valley Christian Center is located at 1404 W. Gladstone, San Dimas.

Special Lenten program

Bible scholar to speak

Local Christians will enter the Lenten season this year with special ceremonies. A well known Bible scholar will address them and a university choir will sing for them.

The Pomona Valley Council of Churches will set the program at 7:15 a.m. on Tuesday, with the Ninth Annual Lenten Breakfast at the La Verne Church of the Brethren. Dr. James A. Sanders who serves on the faculties of both the School of Theology and the Claremont Graduate School will be the speaker. The University of La Verne Chamber Singers will provide music.

Dr. Sanders is a dynamic speaker. He relates the ancient past to the questions of today and the options for the future. His published books include works on the Dead Sea scrolls and other archeological finds. Among his well known titles are Torah and Cannon and The Old Testament in the Cross.

Mrs. Audrey Lightbody is executive director of the Council of Church with offices sat 1753 N. Park Ave., Pomona. Reservations can be made by calling tyhe office at 622-3806 or by mailing checks to the office. Cost of the breakfast is $3.25.

Pastor elected head of council

Jim Walters, pastor of the North Hills Seventh-day Adventist Church has been elected chairman of the Claremont Committee of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches. Last year he served as Vice chairman.

The committee represents most Claremont churches, Dr. G. Merril Lenox, minister of outreach at the Claremont United Methodist Church was elected to another term as secretary.

Pastor Walters is a doctoral candidate at the Claremont Graduate School. Before moving to Claremont in 1974, he served churches in Georgia and Tennessee. With his wife Priscilla, Walters has a two year old daughter.

For information on the agency's operation call (213) 335 - 7910.

Rowland Heights is among communities served by the agency.

Disaster training

Those who wish to be of service when disasters occur can learn what to do and what community resources are available by enrolling in free disaster technique classes offered by the Pomona Chapter of the American Red Cross.

When training is completed, students are eligible to join the Pomona Red Cross Disaster Team which provides essential services to communities should natural disasters such as earthquakes, floods, or fires occur.

To obtain more information on the program call (714) 622 - 1348.

Singles club

All single, divorced, or widowed persons in the Diamond Bar - Pomona area are invited to attend the meetings and social functions of the Majority of One singles club. Events are scheduled Wednesdays and Saturdays and include general group meetings, guest speakers, dine - outs and discussions.

The purpose of the group is to provide its membership with social and personal growth activities. Membership applications may be obtained at any club function and prospective members are issued a 30 - day pass. For further information about the club call (714) 598 - 7756, 598 - 2285 or 984 - 7525.

Overeaters group

The Glendora Overeaters Anonymous group meets 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Grace Episcopal Church, 557 E. Mountain View in Glendora. Free child care is provided.

The group is a fellowship of men and women who meet to share with one another in order to solve their common problem and help those who suffer from compulsive overeating. There are no dues, fees, or weigh - ins.

More information may be obtained by calling Overeaters Anonymous at (714) 622 - 6430 or (213) 334 - 5684.

Gymnastics class

Gymnastics classes for boys and girls ages 6 - 18 years are forming now at the YMCA of the Pomona Valley. Beginner classes meet 6 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and intermediate classes meet 7 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

For children ages 3 - 5 years, classes meet 9:15 a.m. Saturdays. Sessions run for five consecutive weeks.

For more information about the courses, stop by the YMCA at 350 N. Garey Ave., or call (714) 623 - 6433.

In San Dimas

New girl scout facility added

Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council President Mrs. Patricia W. Newton has announced the addition of a building to Johnstone Scout House in San Dimas.

"The new building, a latrine facility, has been made possible through the contribution of the California Community Foundation," said Mrs. Newton. "The council's cookie profits help to supplement the needed monies," Mrs. Newton added. "This addition will enable more girls to use the site for camping and will also provide an area for a larger range of activities."

The original property was given to the Girl Scouts in 1937 by Mrs. Alice Johnstone for whom the house was named. At a later date the house burned down and it was not until 1968 that the present building was dedicated. At that time funds were made available from the fire insurance, contributions of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rimpau of San Dimas, daughter of Mrs. Johnstone, and cookie money. Mrs. Newton added at this point, "In fact, we called it the 'House That Cookies Built.' I guess we can say the new building is 'The Addition Cookies Helped to Build'."

It may also be noted that because of the new latrine, a larger summer program will be offered in the San Dimas area.

Spanish Trails is an agency of United Way, Inc., West End United Way and United Way of Orange County North/South.

Credited classes for adults open

Both academic education and vocational training classes are open for enrollment to men and women seeking high school diploma credits and job training certificates through Tri - Community Adult Education.

Individual study labs are available in all three sponsoring districts of Tri - Community — namely, West Covina, Covina - Valley and Charter Oak. The first two offer over 40 courses both morning and evening hours, and the last two also have afternoon sections. The lab at Charter Oak High School offers reading, math and English composition at a cost of $7 for eight weeks.

Griswold Adult Center, 16209 E. San Bernardino Road (just west of Vincent Avenue), in West Covina offers secretarial skills and office occupations classes during morning, afternoon and evening hours.

Students may start and stop whenever it is most convenient for them, and help will be given in planning a career and/or applying for a position. Students aged 18 to 60 may study at their own speed as they acquire academic and employment skills.

Short - term courses in cashiering, grocery merchandising, cash register operation and money exchange will begin in February at Griswold.

For further information, please call (213) 966-8485, 962-6674, 331-1287, 339-5052 or 331-6347.

Reunion

The Alta Loma High School class of 1969 will hold a 10-year reunion on Aug. 18. Classmates or those knowing the address of classmates who have not been contacted for addresses, are asked to call 985-3467.

City of Hope

The Claremont-Montclair Chapter City of Hope will meet Thursday, Feb. 22, at 8 p.m. in the Pines Clubhouse, 5990 Fremont Ave., Montclair.

Plans for fund-raising events will be made and chairmen appointed. Further information is available by calling Voda Ryan at 626-8804.

Check your chances of getting breast cancer.

Cancer can attack anyone. But some people live with a higher risk of developing cancer than others. However, the earlier the diagnosis, the better the chances of cure. If you check any of the boxes, see your doctor. Discuss with him your risk of getting cancer.

Knowing about cancer is a first step in curing it.

- ☐ Over 40 and have close relatives who had breast cancer.
- ☐ Had a breast operation
- ☐ Have a lump or nipple discharge.

Cal Poly class fees finance scholarships

Who would credit a class in ballroom or disco dancing with philanthropic goals?

No one, until they heard of a special class at Cal Poly Pomona called "Happiness is Dancing."

Each quarter selected Cal Poly Pomona music majors benefit from scholarship funds donated on behalf of the class.

Credit for the arrangement goes to Paul and Kathreen Prout. Paul Prout, equipment technician for music at Cal Poly, has taught "Happiness is Dancing," a class drawing dancing enthusiasts all the way from Los Angeles to San Bernardino, for three years. His wife, Kathreen, professor of music at the university, teaches piano.

The Prouts felt there was a need to award talented music students with outstanding scholastic records. Fees from the class could be used to finance scholarships.

They set up three criteria for the scholarships: students must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better (between A and B); they must be among the approximately 80 Cal Poly music majors; they must demonstrate a definite financial need. Decisions on who is selected for the awards is made by a committee of faculty members.

"The gift is given to Cal Poly's annual fund in the name of the dancing class so they can have a part of it," Prout says.

The following students are presently receiving scholarships: Barbara Anselmi, violinist from Pomona; Keith Davis, pianist from Skyland, N. C.; Kathy Elderkin, trombonist from Plymouth, N.H.; Lori Rosenbauer, woodwind major from Upland; and Bob Wells, percussionist from La Canada.

For further information telephone Eleanor Hensel in the news and publications office, 714598-4733.

Drivers told don't pump pedal on cold mornings

Don't pump your gas pedal and hold it to the floor while starting your car on cold winter mornings, an engineer for the Chrysler Corp. has warned.

Bob Guerity, emission ystems engineer for Chrysler's California Emission Test Facility in Santa Fe Springs, said previous information released by the Automobile Club of Southern California (AAA) was incorrect.

Guerity, a Rancho Cucamonga resident, noted a previous article quoted a consultant from the AAA as recommending to drivers they pump the gas pedal at least three times and hold it to the floor while starting the engine.

"We think this procedure would contribute to excess fuel usage and considerably more pollution," Guerity said, adding such practice could flood car engines and result in greater calls to the AAA for assistance.

"We for sure wouldn't want our vehicles treated that way," Guerity said.

"The most important thing to remember is not to pump the gas pedal," he warned. "That's gross overkill.

"For any temperature above, say, 30 degrees, you should push the gas pedal to the floor once, let it up slowly, and start the engine without putting your foot back on the pedal," Guerity suggested.

"Once started some manufacturers say push the gas pedal down slightly to kick off the choke," he added.

Guerity explained the process of pushing the gas pedal down once activates the choke, thereby allowing more gas to enter the carburetor, so pumping the gas pedal is not necessary.

He added, "the best technique for warming up a car is to drive it. If a car is just sitting and idling, it's throwing out pollution."

He also suggested drivers consult their car manuals for more specific information.

New gas pump nozzles to aid in smog control

By PETER WONG
Staff Writer

The West End customer who pumps his own gasoline will notice something different about the nozzle he'll probably be using within two years to fill his car's tank.

The nozzle will look different and feel heavier.

That's because the new nozzle is designed to control gasoline vapors which now escape into Southern California's skies. The vapors contribute to the formation of smog in the nation's dirtiest air basin.

Starting in the spring, the nozzles will be installed on gasoline pumps at each of Southern California's 8,300 service stations. Similar nozzles are already in use in San Diego and the San Francisco Bay area.

The new controls will cost motorists an estimated one-half cent per gallon of gasoline, or $2.60 annually for a motorist who buys 10 gallons a week.

The 12 million gallons of gasoline pumped daily in Southern California release about 69 tons of hydrocarbons into the atmosphere, the South Coast Air Quality Management District says.

That amounts to 10 percent of all hydrocarbons released from stationary (fixed) sources of pollution. Hydrocarbons react chemically with oxides of nitrogen in sunshine to form the photochemical smog common in Southern California.

The district says the new nozzles should eliminate 62 to 65 tons of hydrocarbons daily by 1982.

In stages over the next two years, the district will require the installation of nozzles that will progressively recapture greater amounts of gasoline vapor.

By April 1, oil companies will have to install nozzles that are 90 percent efficient at half of their stations which pump more than 50,000 gallons of gasoline monthly. The other half will be temporarily exempted.

The 90 percent requirement will also apply to stations which pump less than 50,000 gallons of gasoline monthly. Half of those stations will have to have the new nozzles by April 1, the rest by Sept. 1.

More stringent controls will be placed on the larger gasoline stations.

By April 1, 1980, larger stations that were exempted from the 90 percent controls will have to have nozzles that are 95 percent efficient.

The other group of larger stations will have to have the more efficient nozzles by March 1, 1981.

About 2,300 stations in Southern California pump more than 50,000 gallons of gasoline monthly. They account for 27.7 percent of all stations and 51.3 percent of all gasoline pumped daily.

Both types of new nozzles will be considerably heavier and more awkward than the nozzle currently in use. The new nozzles have devices attached to their spouts to collect escaping vapors.

They also have two hoses attached to them — one for vapor collection and the other for gasoline to flow into a car's tank. Current nozzles have only the latter hose.

The new nozzles are likely to cause some difficulties for motorists who choose to pump their own gasoline. Many of them may not work in 1975 and 1976 model cars because they are not long enough to open the trap door in the pipe which leads to the fuel tank.

The trap door was installed to prevent the car from being filled with leaded gasoline. Leaded gasoline destroys the effectiveness of certain pollution control devices in late-model cars.

There are two types of vapor recovery nozzles. One is the balance-type system, which the major oil companies favor but which the California Air Resources Board has certified at only 90 percent efficiency. The other is the assist-type system, which has been certified at 95 percent efficiency.

A balance-type system has no moving parts. It uses natural pressure to force gasoline vapors back into a storage tank. But it requires an airtight seal between the nozzle and the pipe through which gasoline flows into a car's fuel tank.

An Air Resources Board statement says:

"The proper insertion of the nozzle, although critical to the system's performance, is not easy or obvious; therefore, the collection efficiency of a present balance system at a self-service station may be very low."

The system is believed to be 90 to 92 percent efficient if operated by an attendant, but less if operated by customers who aren't familiar with it.

An assist-type system uses a vacuum pump or blower to recover gasoline vapors and transfer them to an underground storage tank.

Local courts render felony judgments

Numerous cases involving felony charges were judged recently in West Valley Superior Court. Names, addresses, charges and dispositions are as reported by the district attorney's office.

Conviction charges may in some instances be affected by terms of a plea agreement between defendant and prosecutor. In cases where the sentence prescribed is a term in the county jail, the original felony charge reverts to a misdemeanor.

The cases and dispositions include:

— William Carl Post, age and city of residence unknown. Charged with escape, or attempt to escape from jail, prison, road camp or industrial farm and attempted kidnapping. Found guilty by court trial of escape, or attempt to escape from jail, prison, road camp or industrial farm. The defendant was sentenced to two years in state prison to be served consecutive with his present term by Judge Henry Busch.

— Kenneth Steven Romero, 22, city of residence unknown. Charged with escape, or attempt to escape from jail, prison, road camp or industrial farm. The defendant pleaded guilty to escape, or attempt to escape from jail, prison, road camp or industrial farm. The defendant was sentenced to two years in state prison with 128 days credit for time served by Judge Kenneth Ziebarth.

— Manual Michael Gonzales, 24, city of residence unknown. Charged with murder. The defendant pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter and was sentenced to three years in state prison with 272 days credit for time served by Judge Richard Garner.

— Albert Harold Saint, 21, 1732 Alder St., Fontana. Charged with criminal conspiracy; transporting, selling or furnishing a controlled substance; and transporting, selling or furnishing marijuana. The defendant pleaded guilty to transporting, selling or furnishing marijuana. He received a four-year suspended sentence to state prison and was placed on four years probation with terms and conditions to serve 365 days in county jail with two days credit for time served by Judge Garner.

— Louie Herrera Flores, 18, 132 E. Maitland St., Ontario. Charged with assault with a deadly weapon and assault with the intent to commit a felony. He was committed to California Youth Authority with 12 days credit for time served by Judge Clifton Allen.

— Frank A. Cardoso, 20, 1229 Bonita Court, Ontario. Charged with taking a vehicle without the owner's permission and burning of personal property. The defendant pleaded guilty to taking a vehicle without the owner's permission and possession of flammable or explosive material with the intent to burn or destroy property. Pronouncement of judgment was withheld with the defendant placed on four years probation with terms and conditions to serve 150 days in county jail by Judge Allen.

— Antonio Albert Martins, 19, 12969 11th St., Chino. Charged with taking a vehicle without the owner's permission and burning of personal property. The defendant pleaded guilty to taking a vehicle without the owner's permission. Pronouncement of judgment was withheld with the defendant placed on four years probation with terms and conditions to serve 90 days in county jail with one day credit for time served by Judge Allen.

Additional income for 1979-80

County budget to get $5 million

San Bernardino County government will have $5 million more in income than originally forecast for the 1979-80 budget, the board of supervisors was told Tuesday.

But County Administrative Officer Earl Goodwin said he will attempt to keep general county spending at the $255 million mark for the year starting July 1.

"At the moment, it looks like we have a good chance of doing that," Goodwin told the supervisors at a budget workshop.

The board agreed to review in April and May the budgets of county departments whose programs were least affected by Proposition 13, the state constitutional amendment which slashed county government's income from property taxes.

Those include most welfare and social service programs, community development projects intended to upgrade neighborhoods, road construction and maintenance, public transportation and some medical services for the poor.

The supervisors will review the budgets of all other county departments in June, depending upon legislative action in Sacramento. The two-step hearing process will allow more time for the supervisors to examine the budgets of certain county departments.

Of the higher estimated income for 1979-80, "we shouldn't approach the budget with the idea we're going to spend every dime we have," Supervisors' Chairman James L. Mayfield of Apple Valley said.

Goodwin said that was not his intention.

When the 1978-79 budget was adopted in August, Goodwin's office forecast 1979-80 county income at $255.3 million and the 1979-80 county budget at $255.5 million, excluding special accounts unaffected by Proposition 13.

Goodwin said Tuesday he has revised the income forecast to $260.4 million. He said that assumes:

— An increase of 7 percent in countywide assessed valuation, from which the county and all other local governments share property tax income left after Proposition 13.

— Continued economic growth as reflected in Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s 1979-80 state budget. That assumes the county will receive more in income from sales, motor vehicle and property transfer taxes, among others.

— Income to county departments as forecast last August.

— Continued state payment of the counties' shares of welfare and Medi-Cal programs, plus continued state aid to counties. San Bernardino County government received more than $40 million in such post-Proposition 13 aid in the 1978-79 budget year.

The current county general fund budget is almost $265 million. With the special accounts, county spending runs close to $330 million.

Goodwin said the 1979-80 budget currently sets aside only less than $250,000 for county construction projects, compared with $10 million this year.

If the county ends up with a surplus of $3 million by the end of the budget year June 30, Goodwin said, the supervisors could choose the spend the money for construction projects in 1979-80.

Woman appointed clerk of board of supervisors

Andree Disharoon was appointed Monday as clerk to the county board of supervisors. She is the second woman to hold that post.

Mrs. Disharoon, 59, had been interim clerk since the end of July, when Leona Rapoport retired. Mrs. Disharoon was assistant clerk of the board for nine years.

Mrs. Disharoon was one of about a dozen applicants for the clerk's job. The clerk's office prepares agendas and takes minutes of supervisors' meetings. It also receives and files official documents. It deals with the public frequently. The clerk's salary is $16,512.

Mrs. Disharoon has been a county employee for 15 years. She was employed by the juvenile and legal division of the county probation department for 5½ years before she went to the clerk's office.

She was among the first members of the U.S. Navy WAVES, the women's reserve formed during World War II. She and her husband, Murray, live in San Bernardino. They have two sons and a daughter.

The 18th century altar of Mexican carved cedar, below, and covered with layers of gold leaf hammered into the designs graces the St. Francis of Assissi Chapel at Mission Inn, Riverside. An interdenominational chapel, many famous people have been married there. The Japanese tower, right, is one of many towers at the inn. David Solomon, professional artist from Laguna Beach, can be seen on a balcony painting the tower. Many artists come to Mission Inn to paint the unique architecture and artifacts.

Sophia Loren danced on the Lea Lea Room's bar, "Casablanca" was filmed there, and the room where Richard and Pat Nixon were married is now a cocktail lounge.

The Mission Inn in Riverside has been and continues to be the setting for many such happenings. For 100 years, the inn has been a colorful place to visit.

Over the years, since owner Frank Millerdied in 1935, the unique hotel has been through serious financial problems. It was on the brink of being demolished, but friends rallied around and Mission Inn was made a California historic landmark.

In 1976, Riverside citizens decided the inn had to be assured a stable future, so it now is owned by the Urban Redevelopment Agency of Riverside.

Betty Condos, public information officer of the inn, said with this Mission Inn being returned to its past glory with public funds.

"The inn is thriving now," she said. The 137 apartments are rented with a waiting list of people who want to live in the mecca of Spanish, Moorish and Oriental architecture.

There are 15 hotel rooms in use and occupied most of the time. Two floors of hotel rooms are in the midst of renovation.

"The drawbacks of living at Mission Inn are the plumbing and electrical problems. If one room or apartment needs the water turned off for plumbing repairs, the whole hotel has to be without water," Mrs. Condos said. "The same goes for the electricity. But under the Urban Redevelopment and the grant, these things are to be rectified."

Mrs. Condos also revealed the Mission Inn has no central heating or air conditioning. Rooms and apartments are supplied with electric heaters.

"Our electric bill, especially with the past cold weather, is astronomical," she said.

There are no telephones in the hotel rooms and due to fire laws, only one fireplace on the main level can be used — and there are fireplaces in every room of the inn.

"The romantic atmosphere of the inn makes it worth living here," she said.

"How many rooms in the inn? I don't think anyone has ever tried to count them," Mrs. Condos said. She implied that counting the rooms also would be an astronomical task.

Mission Inn is a full city block in size with one structure attached to the other in a U-shape. In the center is a large patio, which now has a swimming pool.

The inn got its start when Frank Augustus Miller and his family came to Riverside in 1874 and built an adobe home. Times were hard, so the Millers took in paying guests.

The son, Frank, bought the adobe home from his father in 1880 and started adding wings. He turned the grounds into a garden.

As he added parts to the inn, Miller followed his fetish for Spanish, Mexican and Oriental architecture and his religious convictions. Though the inn was never a mission, it was modeled after the California missions featuring innumerable stained glass windows, some in obvious and strange places.

Art works, bells, religious statues, especially of St. Francis of Assissi, and Della Robbia art from Italy were placed all over the inn. A large chapel was built in the name of St. Francis, and there is a smaller, St. Cecilia chapel, which was a rare stained glass window signed by the famous maker, Tiffany.

The inn became Southern California's most famous winter resort. Presidents visited, celebrities clamored to stay there. Distinguished business and world leaders were guests. Motion pictures were made at the inn.

After Miller's death, the subsequent owner could not succeed in making Mission Inn a commercial success. Riverside and Southern California residents mourned the decline of the historic and beautiful inn.

Now functioning again as Frank Miller envisioned, tourists, sightseers and friends of Mission Inn are coming to see the marvelous ingenuity and imagination of the first owner.

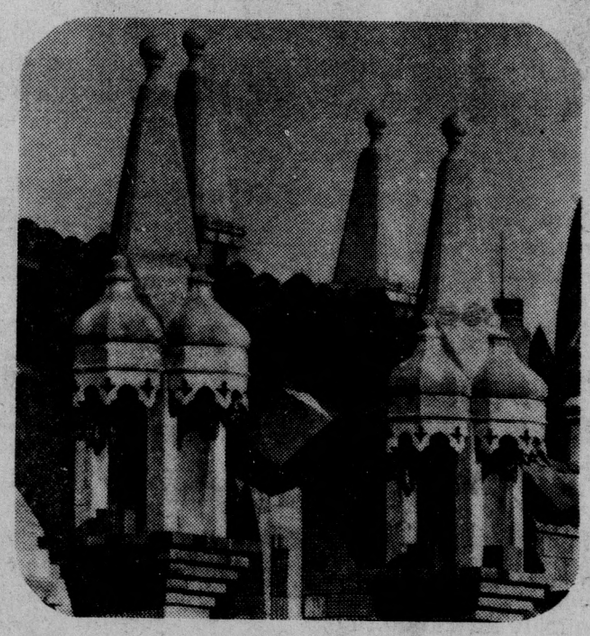

Mrs. Condos said an average of 700 persons now come to the Sunday buffets. Every week, 500 to 600 persons take tours conducted by guides who are well-schooled in telling the story of Mission Inn.

Artists can be seen in various areas as they paint the myriad of towers, gardens, patios and the carillon tower.

Conventions make headquarters at the inn though the people lodge in local motels. The dining room is busy daily for the luncheon crowd, and with warm weather, service is extended into the center patio.

It's an adventure to visit Mission Inn. Wherever one looks, they see something different, artistic, amusing, beautiful.

Frank Miller would be proud and happy to know Riverside cared about his Mission Inn and saved it from oblivion.

All kinds of towers grace Mission Inn, Riverside. These loom above writers' row on the fifth floor. Many famous writers have stayed at Mission Inn over the years, and in one of the rooms of writers' row, Carrie Jacobs Bond is supposed to have written her most famous song, "When It Come to the End of a Perfect Day."

Luncheon in the patio of Mission Inn, Riverside, is a treat for visitors. Patrons are seated around the center fountain at tile-topped tables. Overhead is the huge clock, now under repair, which has almost life-size figures rotating as time passes.

The rotunda at Mission Inn has six levels and its style is like a Spanish castle or Moorish palace. Frank Miller, who built Mission Inn, incorporated Spanish, Mexican, Oriental and Moorish designs as he added to the building wing by wing.

Top debater

Fabiani captures national recognition

By MARGE GROSS
Staff Writer

"In four years of college debating, Mark Fabiani of Ontario is probably the only person to have reached elimination rounds in every tournament."

These words of praise come from Bill Southworth, associate professor of speech and debating team coach, at the University of Redlands.

Fabiani, son of Dolores and Domenic Fabiani, was active in debating at Damien High School in San Dimas.

"The reason I selected Redlands was because of its debating program," Fabiani said. The debating teams, Southworth said, have been enthusiastically supported by Redlands for 60 years.

Fabiani plans to become a lawyer. A senior at Redlands, he has been accepted for graduate work at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

This 1978-79 year on the Redlands team, Fabiani has been the first speaker at four major national tournaments, all captured within a month's time.

"No one ever has won that many first speaker awards in a row in those caliber of tournaments," Southworth said.

The competitions were held at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga.; Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H.; Harvard University and Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.

The Redlands teams compete against the top 10 of all the major colleges and university teams in the United States. Southworth said students debate on a team plan and during the debates, individual points are given to the speakers. In this way, the points are acquired and the speaker with the greatest number, is the speaker's award winner.

Each year, major national topics are debated. This year the subject has been, "Resolve — the Federal Government should establish a program to guarantee employment opportunities for all U.S. citizens in the labor force."

Fabiani and Southworth said there is a tremendous amount of research done on the subjects, but Fabiani said, "You can usually find something to say about everything."

The subject is announced in July and debaters spend much time in the summer doing "immense research."

"Last year," Fabiani said, "the subject was easier as it was, 'Increasing freedom for law enforcement agencies'."

Teamwise, Southworth said the Redlands' two top teams have done "quite well" as they had the third best team in national competition. Members of the team were Fabiani and Mark Warfel of La Verne, also a Damien High School debating team product.

Teamed together this year, the two won the UCLA tournament on New Year's Eve.

'Medea' to be presented at Cal State

"Medea," one of the best known Classic Greek tragedies which still has relevance today, will be presented by the Players of the Pear Garden at Cal State, San Bernardino, opening Thursday, Feb. 22.

Other performance dates are Feb. 23-24, 27-28 and March 1-3. The curtain will rise at 8:15 p.m. in the Theatre of the Creative Arts Building for all shows.

Tickets are now on sale and may be obtained by calling the theatre arts department office 887-7452 or 887-7680.

"Medea," which has meaning and significance even in the 20th century, will be directed by Dr. Ronald E. Barnes, chairman of the Cal State theater arts department.

"In a time of women's rights consciousness, this is a most important play because it presents the question, what rights does a woman have if her husband deserts her?" the director said.

Written more than 2000 years ago, this psychological study by Euripides is the story of a woman who sacrifices her reputation and kills her husband and her children because of her husband's infidelity.

The playwright was noted, even in his own time, for his dramatizations of the strong and violent passions of men, and especially women. The underlying message in "Medea" is a caution against excess emotion and a warning against bitter vengeance.

The play has had many translations and this particular version was written by Paul Roche in 1974.

Typical of Greek theater, Cal State's presentation of "Medea" will feature a chorus, but both men and women will be used. In traditional Greek theater all performers were male. Even female roles were played by men.

A unique aspect of the Cal State presentation is the combination of the Classical theater approach of using masks and elaborate costumes with modern techniques of electronic music and laser lighting to achieve a theater experience that will challenge and stimulate a variety of senses, Dr. Barnes said.

In the Classic theater, actors used masks because in the large stadiums, the audience was quite a distance away. Also the masks helped the actor assume the role of another person, the director explained further.

"Another interesting aspect of the masks is that they are generally considered rigid and unmoving, but by using effective stage lighting they may appear to change and take on a human quality," he said.

28 Western artist's works exhibited

By ILA WALES
Staff Writer

A Western art exhibit opens today at the Saddleback Western Art Gallery at the Saddleback Inn in Santa Ana. The exhibit, which includes the works of 28 Western artists, will be open through March 17.

Today's events include kickoff luncheon and an artists' reception. Gene Favell of the Favell Museum in Klamath Falls, Ore., will speak on "The Fine Art of Collecting Fine Art" and Dick Spencer, publisher of "Western Horseman," will speak on "The Horse in Western Art" at the luncheon. Information on the luncheon, which will be at the hotel's Trabuco Room, is available by calling the gallery at 835-3311, extension 151.

Fred Fellows of Bigfork, Mont., has been selected special guest artist for the show. A special limited edition full-color poster featuring Fellow's painting, "15 miles from Breakfast, 4 miles to Supper," is available.

In addition to Fellows, the exhibit will include works by Clifford V. Barnes, Robert Blair, Jodie Boren, Reynolds Brown, Jerry Crandall, Penni Ann Cross, Lisa Danielle, Steve Devenyns, Mille Funk, Sherry Gribben, Dick Heichberger, Bill Hoffman, James R. Johnson, John Kittelson, Walt LaRue, Mary LeLehman, Thomas Lorimer, Ted Long, Vel Miller, Gary Myers, Penny Onstott, Jack Asmer, Don "Putt" Putnam, Bill Shaddix, Ron Stewart, Curtis Wingate and Gene Zesch.

The Saddleback Western Art Gallery is located at First Street and the Santa Ana Freeway in Santa Ana.

*

Kirilian photography, electronic photographs of electromagnetic and electrical fields around objects, by photographer Minna Hertel, will be exhibited in the Salathe Gallery at McConnel Center on the Pitzer College campus in Claremont through Friday.

Penni Ann Cross, pictured here with one of her paintings, is among the 28 Western artists who are exhibiting their works at Saddleback Inn in Santa Ana through March 17.

A reception for Hertel is scheduled at 8 p.m. today. Both the exhibit and the reception are free and open to the public. Gallery hours are from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekdays.

*

A senior show featuring the work of four Cal Poly Pomona art majors will open at the Cal Poly University Union exhibit gallery Friday and continue through March 13. A public reception for the artists will be from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday.

On exhibit will be works by Sharon Clampett of San Dimas, Deborah Cummins of Woodland Hills, Michael W. Pickup of Chino and Emily Ruth Velez of Pomona.

Hours for the University Union gallery are Monday through Friday, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Monday through Thursday from 6 to 8 p.m.

*

Corby Skinner, a master of fine arts candidate at Claremont Graduate School, has combined painting and sculpture to create an environment he calls "Painted Sticks."

The exhibit will be on display through Friday in the Libra Gallery, 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue, Claremont. A reception for the artist will be at the gallery on Tuesday, starting at 8 p.m. Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. The gallery is closed on weekends.

'Shenandoah' adds matinee show

Due to brisk ticket sales and popular demand, San Bernardino Civic Light Opera has scheduled a special matinee performance of the Broadway musical hit, "Shenandoah," starring film and stage star, Gordon MacRae.

The matinee will be presented on Saturday, Feb. 24, at the California Theatre of Performing Arts, 562 W. Fourth St., San Bernardino. Curtain time is 2:15 p.m.

"Shenandoah," which captured the coveted Tony Award on Broadway, opens for a limited engagement at the California Theater of Performing Arts, Feb. 16 through 24 (except Sunday.) Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

MacRae, who starred in such film musicals as "Oklahoma," and "Carousel," will be seen as Charlie Anderson, an independent-minded farmer who resists the war fever that swirls around his farm in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia during the Civil War.

Tickets for "Shenandoah," are available for all performances and can be purchased at the Civic Light Opera Ticket Office, 2079 N. E St., San Bernardino. Tickets can also be ordered direct by phoning 882-2545 or 825-9452.

Tickets can also be puchased at all Mutual Agencies, and the following agencies: Chamber of Commerce, Ontario, and Kaiser Recreation Center, Fontana.

Vaughan, Torme will share stage

Sarah Vaughan, known to her fans as the "Divine Sarah" and Mel Torme, internationally known performer, songwriter and arranger, will appear in concert on Friday, Feb. 23 at 8 p.m. in Bridges Auditorium, located on the campus of the Claremont Colleges in Claremont.

Tickets for the Vaughan-Torme concert are available at all Mutual Ticket Agencies and at Bridges Box Office, Fourth and College Way, Claremont. Phone orders for MC, Visa, B/A are accepted at 621-8032.

*

Torme, who has been a professional entertainer for more than 40 years, has been a singer, movie star, composer, radio performer, drummer, TV talk show host, musical arranger, dramatic actor, TV producer, vaudeville performer and author of books and magazine and newspaper articles.

For the past five years, Torme has been an annual headliner at the Sahara, Sands, and MGM Resort Hotels. He also conducts the Hartford, Dallas, Denver, Tucson, Tulsa, Edmonton, and San Francisco Symphony Orchestras when he appears with them. In 1976, Torme won a Grammy and two new albums were released in the fall of 1978. Currently he is touring extensively and has completed a novel, "Wynner."

Tower of Power to play MSAC

The rock group Tower of Power will perform at Mt. San Antonio College Sunday, Feb. 25. Sure to be heard during the concert are the groups' super hits, "You're Still a Young Man," "So Very Hard to Go," and "What is Hip."

Tickets are on sale in the MSAC Associated Students Business Office. All seats in Gym 3 are reserved. (No phone orders.)

Michael Jefferies, the newest and youngest member of Tower, is lead singer. Emilio Castillo, founder-leader of the group, Greg Adams, Mic Gillette, Steve Kupka, and Lenny Pickett form the Towers' famous horn section.

College thespians replace Shakespeare play with melodrama

Falkland L. Cary's and Philip Weathers' suspenseful melodrama, "Madam Tic Tac," will be the spring fare at Mt. San Antonio College's Little Theater, instead of the "Taming of the Shrew." The Shakespeare classic was scrubbed when casting and other production problems made it impossible to keep to normal rehearsal schedules.

Tickets are now on sale for the London thriller, set in the Soho district during the mid-40s.

"Madam Tic Tac" will run Friday and Saturday and March 2 and 3. Curtain goes up at 8 p.m.

A free dress rehearsal performance will be open to high school drama students on Thursday afternoon on a space - available basis.

Madam Tic Tac, deaf, blind, and angry from an accident, blames bureaucratic inefficiency for her plight and takes to crime, leading her ruffian band from the cafe she operates.

Unable to communicate normally, she has developed a special language, tic tac, tapping out messages to the "listeners" with her fingers on the palms of their hands.

Tic Tac holds the secret to the identity of a murderer, and suspense mounts as the audience wonders whether she'll be able to communicate her secret to someone in time to save the innocent — and herself.

'Waiting for Godot' slated in Claremont

"Waiting for Godot" by Samuel Beckett will be presented by Pomona College Theater as the second major production of the 78-79 season. It will play Feb. 22-24 and March 1-3 at 8 p.m. in Holmes Hall, at Sixth and College avenues, Claremont.

Theater professor Bret Lyon is directing an all female version of "Godot" which will emphasize time, its use and its passing, as the central issue. He is fascinated with Beckett's use of time, his ability to stretch it and then condense it, and intends an examination of how it is used and neglected. The vaudevillian aspects of the play will also be stressed.

The play itself is very spare, both verbally and scenically, and the set designed by Ron Wilson will provide a simple, yet striking desert for the weary waiters.

Design student Cammy Argus has designed faded, worn costumes which hint of past glories.

For information and reservations, please call 621-8186.

Try southern-fried pies

Crisp, fragrant Fried Apple Pies are a specialty of the Southern States. Sometimes they're made using a rich biscuit dough, but the best are made with pastry. Like all versions of apple pie, they're delicious to eat but these are great for packed lunches, because they don't have to be cut and served.

Fried Apple Pies are fine for packed lunches or buffet entertaining. They can be made using canned or fresh apples, but fresh apples give the pies more zip. Apple pies, fried like this, are a southern speciality and can be made with biscuit dough or pastry.

Most pie bakers have a favorite variety of apple for pies. Often it's a local variety available during harvest time. This time of year, fewer varieties are available, but try combining two or three different kinds for interesting texture and flavor.

Canned applesauce and apple pie filling are additional possibilities. If you have mincemeat or candied fruits left over from the holidays, add these to applesauce for a special treat.

Fried Apple Pies are rich and satisfying, they need no accompaniments. However, cheese lovers usually appreciate slices of tangy cheese with apples in any form. Hot coffee or apple cider makes an appropriate beverage.

Fried Applesauce Pies

2 packages pie crust mix (11 oz. each)
2½ cups sweetened applesauce
1½ cups prepared mincemeat
½ cup chopped walnuts

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions. Roll out crust on a floured surface to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut dough into 5-inch rounds. Mix applesauce, mincemeat and walnuts and place a heaping tablespoon on each round of dough. Brush edge of dough with water. Fold over enclosing filling and press edges together with the tines of a fork. Place on a tray and chill for 2 hours.

Preheat oil for frying to 375 degrees F. Drop the pies into the hot oil and fry 2 to 3 minutes on each side or until golden brown. Remove with a pancake turner and drain on absorbent paper. Serve warm. Makes 24 Fried Apple Pies.

Fresh Apple Variation: Peel, core and chop 6 medium apples. Mix apples with 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ cup raisins or walnuts. Proceed as for Applesauce Fried Pies. Makes 24 Fried Apple Pies.

Booklet of games

What's green and white and makes spinach as much fun as ice cream?

A bright new publication from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, entitled "Fun With Good Foods."

The 48-page booklet is full of puzzles and games. There are delightful drawings of animals, foods and things associated with foods to count, color, cut out, name and even to write stories about.

Page 44 teaches how to make a nourishing lunch of a glass of milk, a peanut butter sandwich and an apple. And page 45 challenges the child to match each part of lunch with its appropriate food group.

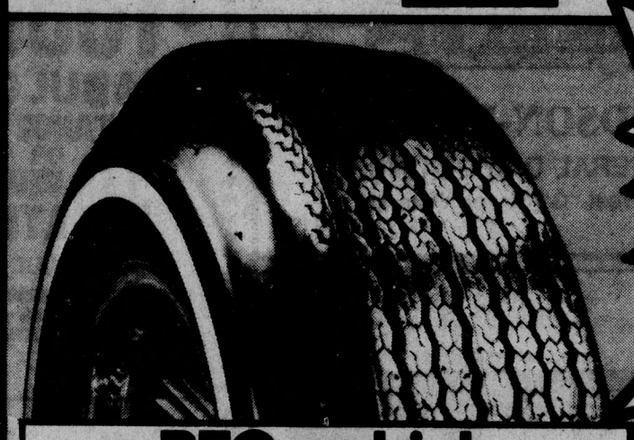

"Fun With Good Foods" is available for $1.90 by writing to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. The publication stock number is 001-000-03868-1.

Order one for your youngster and then go ahead and say it, Mom: "Johnny, play with your food."

Japanese Fruit Cake II is large, good

By Marjorie Rice
Copley News Service

A new year and some new resolutions, chiefly to get through the stacks of requests for recipes, and to get into print the ones I've received from readers.

This is from Edna Gossett. "I made it for Christmas," she wrote, "which was my first time. We all liked it. It sure is a big cake."

It sure is. But it sounds delicious.

Japanese Fruitcake Version II

Basic layers:

1 cup shortening (part butter)
2 cups granulated sugar
4 eggs
3 cups flour
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
1 cup buttermilk
1 tsp. vanilla

Fruit-spice mixture

2/3 cup chopped nuts
2/3 cup chpped raisins
¾ tsp. EACH, cinnamon, allspice, mace
½ tsp. cloves

Fruitcake filling

2/3 cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
4 tbsps. cornstarch
¾ cup pineapple syrup (from No. 2 can crushed pineapple)
1 tbsp. butter
¼ cup orange juice
2 tbsps. grated orange rind
2 tbsps. lemon juice
1½ cups grated coconut
Drained crushed pineapple from No. 2 can
½ cup chopped pecans

Using ingredients from "basic layers" list, cream together shortening, and sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time, until well incorporated. Sift together flour, soda and salt; stir into egg - shortening mixture.

Add alternately the buttermilk and vanilla. Pour one - third of this batter into greased 9-inch round cake pan.

To remaining batter, add all ingredients from "fruit - spice mixture" list. Mix well and pour into two greased 9-inch round cake pans. Bake layers 30 to 35 minutes in preheated 350 - degree oven, until cakes test done.

Prepare filling by mixing sugar, salt and cornstarch together. Slowly stir in the syrup. Cook over low heat until mixture thickens and boils. Boil one minute and add butter, orange juice, orange rind and lemon juice. Stir well and cool.

Add coconut, pineapple and pecans. Cool layers and put together with filling, putting light cake layer in center. Frost with white confectioners' icing.

Japanese Fruitcake II

4 eggs
1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 cups sifted flour
3 tsps. baking powder
1 cup milk
1 tsp. EACH, cloves, cinnamon, allspice
¾ pound raisins, cut fine
1 cup chopped nuts
Juice and rind of 1 orange
Juice of 1 lemon
1 grated coconut (or 3½ - ounce can grated coconut)
1 small can crushed pineapple
1 cup boiling water
2 cups sugar

Mix eggs, butter, sugar, flour, baking powder and milk, using the same method as for fruitcake No. II. Divide batter in half. Using one half of the batter, fill two greased and floured cake pans (I'd assume 8-inch, although Swanson doesn't specify size).

Bake these plain layers for 25 to 30 minutes in a preheated 350 - degree oven.

To the other half of the batter, add cloves, cinnamon, allspice, raisins and nuts. Pour into two more greased and floured cake pans and bake at 350 for 25 to 30 minutes.

To make filling, mix together remaining ingredients in a saucepan over medium high heat. When it begins to boil, add 1 tablespoon cornstarch and reduce heat. "Cook 'til it drops — not runs — from the spoon, about 40 minutes," Swanson said.

Place dark layer on serving plate, spread with filling, then follow with light layer, filling, dark layer, filling, light layer and top with filling. Drizzle the rest of the filling down the sides.

That's not all the fruitcakes, but it is all the room for today.

Elegant steak for special duo to celebrate life

A great dinner is a way to unwind and celebrate life's good things, and steaks in a subtly-flavored blue cheese sauce are perfect for the working couple since they're quickly prepared.

Individual tenderloin steaks are first pan fried to desired doneness. To obtain the optimum quality of the beef, consumer specialists at the California Beef Council suggest not cooking beyond medium rare.

Blue cheese and red wine are blended into the pan drippings to create a sauce that enhances rather than overwhelms the superb flavor of the meat.

A garnish of crisp radishes adds texture and color.

Accompany this gourmet entree with a mixed salad and hearty red wine.

Steak with Blue Cheese Sauce

2 beef tenderloin steaks (6 to 8 oz. each)
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2 tablespoons dry red wine
2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese
Thinly sliced radishes

Pan-fry steaks in butter 3 to 4 minutes on each side. Season with salt and pepper. Remove to heated platter. Stir red wine and blue cheese into pan juices. Cook until smooth and heated through. Spoon sauce over steaks and garnish with sliced radishes. Makes 2 servings.

Cholesterol reduction

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Mayo clinic physicians have found that putting a patient with a blood cholesterol level of 300 mg per 100 ml of serum on a low cholesterol diet usually results in a reduction of about 10 percent after a period of three months.

Because 270 mg percent "is still too high," the patients are then given drug therapy, which becomes the mainstay of their treatment.

Addressing a meeting of the American Heart Association, Memphis Chapter, P.J. Palumbo, M.D., consultant in endocrinology and internal medicine, Mayo Medical School, stressed the importance of preventing heart disease before it develops.

"It is now clear that early identification and treatment of elevated blood cholesterol reduces the possibility of cardiovascular disease," Dr. Palumbo said.

The cholesterol level for Americans recommended by the well-known, long-term Framingham (Mass.) Study is 220 mg percent. The study found that with cholesterol levels over 240 mg percent, there was a significant increase in cardiovascular disease, heart attack and death.

Dr. Palumbo said that the medications recommended may be colestipol or cholestyramine — which belong to a group of drugs called resins — or another, called probucol, "which has the advantage of being a tablet taken twice a day."

Patients sometimes are reluctant or forget to take medications that need to be taken several times a day, are inconvenient, or are unpalatable, the doctor explained.

He recommended that when there is a history of heart disease in a family with a resulting death at age 50 or younger, youngsters under 20 should be screened for elevated blood lipids once during their childhood.

Between the ages of 20 and 50, every three to five years is sufficient, according to Dr. Palumbo, and from age 50 on, screening should be done "at the discretion of the physician."

Want Ad Users Never Suffer An Identity Crisis

Want ad users know they are the wise people who take advantage of the many buying and selling opportunities offered in Classified.

They know Classified is the place for bargains in such things as household furnishings, appliances, toys, musical instruments and all kinds of merchandise. They identify with good deals in automobiles and recognize the selection and convenience offered in the Real Estate listings.

Want Ad users also are aware of the many helpful Business Services available to those who have renovation, repairs, yard and garden work, and any of the other tasks which can be performed at reasonable cost by qualified workmen.

Most important, perhaps, is Classified readers' know-how in the money-making department. They find it is so easy to dispose of their useful but no-longer-used items in the Articles for Sale columns. And at so little cost per ad.

So watch Classified and you, too, can be identified with the people who know how to save money and pocket extra cash.

Loan No. 78-A023
T.S. No. 31028-4

T. D. SERVICE COMPANY as duly appointed Trustee under the following described deed of trust WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER FOR CASH (payable at time of sale in lawful money of the United States) all right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust in the property hereinafter described:

TRUSTOR: MELVIN E. WOLF and DORRIS M. WOLF, husband and wife, as joint tenants

BENEFICIARY: JOHN PEDERSEN, a married man, as his sole and separate property

Recorded March 23, 1978 as instr. No. 139 in book 9395, page 246 of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of San Bernardino County; said deed of trust describes the following property:

The land referred to in this Guarantee is situated in the State of California, County of San Bernardino and is described as follows: Lot 59, Tract 8165, in the County of San Bernardino, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 109, Pages 65 to 67, inclusive, of Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said County.

2309 North 4th Avenue, Upland, California 91786.

"(If a street address or common designation is shown above no warranty is given as to its completeness or correctness)."

The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust, by reason of a breach or default in the obligations secured thereby, heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and written notice of breach and of election to cause the undersigned to sell said property to satisfy said obligations, and thereafter the undersigned caused said notice of breach and of election to be recorded November 1, 1978 as instr. No. 528 in book 9551, page 915, of said Official Records.

Said sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest as in said note provided, advances, if any, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust.

Said sale will be held on Monday, March 5, 1979 at 2:00 P.M. at the North entrance to the County Courthouse, in the City of San Bernardino, California.

60—Help Wanted

Notice

The following rules apply to class 60, HELP WANTED, effective Sept 1.

All Help Wanted ads must state nature of work being offered. Example: Saleswork, Secretary, Soliciting, Driver, etc.

Statements of employee compensation are optional; however, when any dollar amount is listed, means of compensation must also be stated such as salary, hourly, commission, etc.

Employers who require a fee for equipment, application, registration or training must so state in their ad.

Ads requiring investments must run under Class 27, BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

Ads offering training must run under Class 70, EDUCATION-INSTRUCTIONS.

Violations of these rules should be brought to the attention of The Classified Advertising Manager, The Daily Report, 983-3511.
